Governor reports to WCH audience

By MIKE FLYNN

An overflow crowd of nearly 250 persons heard Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan tell what he called "part of the record in terms of what the Democratic administration has to offer for the people of Ohio" at a special Governors Luncheon Monday in the Terrace Lounge.

Gov. Gilligan told the large and attentive audience, which spilled over into the regular dining area of the restaurant, that Democrats can now speak with pride of what has been achieved in Ohio during a relatively short period of time.

The Ohio governor was speaking primarily of the tax reform package approved in 1971 and ratified in all of Ohio's 88 counties by a 69 per cent margin.

Gov. Gilligan pointed out that the new tax reform measure allows money to be sent back to local governments and stressed "it would be absolutely crazy if local governments were undercut."

HE ALSO pinpointed how the funds apply locally. Gov. Gilligan said residents of Fayette County contribute $702,000 in personal income tax and $800,000 more funds are put back in the Washington C.H. and Miami Trace

$10 million spent on Nixon 'security'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has made an unprecedented accounting for some of the secret costs of the presidency while ordering a full disclosure on his purchase of homes in California and Florida.

Acting on the President's instructions, officials at the White House, Secret Service and General Services Administration revealed Monday that nearly $10 million had been spent by the government since 1969 for security, communications and other work at the First Family's out-of-town residences and offices.

At the same time, presidential spokesman Gerald L. Warren announced that Nixon had hired a private auditing firm to prepare "a complete, detailed accounting of the acquisition of the homes and property" he has purchased since taking office in San Clemente, Calif., and Key Biscayne, Fla.

That report will be released within a month, Warren said as he told newsmen it would "include everything ... on which you have had questions."

The White House has been barraged with questions since May, when it disclosed that Nixon had borrowed $625,000 from industrialist friend Robert M. Abplanalp to purchase the San Clemente estate in July 1969—and that the loan was canceled in a complex school districts than under the old tax distribution formula.

The new tax reform has meant a 110 per cent increase ($532,000) in Miami Trace School District revenues and 43 per cent ($260,000) for the Washington C.H. city schools, he said. Combined it is an increase of $792,082 for the two districts. The governor explained to meet those figures 7.5 additional mills would have to be levied for the county schools and 7.2 additional mills in the city school district.

Gov. Gilligan said that the average income in Fayette County is $7,891 for a family of five with an average home market value of $15,000. Under the tax reform program, Gov. Gilligan said it means an average increase of $29 per year or 23 cents per week.

He cited corporate income tax as the key to the large share of funds received by the local governments.

GOV. GILLIGAN also explained in detail the humanization program started under his administration. As an example, he referred to Orient State Hospital, where he visited prior to his short stop in Washington C.H.

While at Orient, the governor attended a groundbreaking ceremony for a new $3.5 million surgical and medical facility. He pointed out that he is only the second Ohio governor in 35 years to visit Orient. Michael DeSalle was the other.

"It's through the money given to the state for the past 18 months that has enabled for the proper care of the mentally retarded, Gov. Gilligan said. There are 2,700 mentally retarded patients at Orient.

Through the tax reform, Gilligan said patients at Orient have electric fans in the wards, ice machines and water fountains for the first time. He also said that population of the wards has been reduced and new furniture has been purchased to replace the old.

GOV. GILLIGAN opened his luncheon speech with a bit of political humor by saying he wished that the large crowd had attended as a praise to him, but thought the size of the crowd was a reflection of the menu which offered roast beef and said that those attending were probably thinking that transaction 18 months later when Nixon sold to Abplanalp 23 of the 29 acres in the ocean-side tract.

GSA administrator Arthur Sampson, in an apparent reference to Watergate, said his agency divulged its $3.7 million in spending for security and administrative support of the President and his family because of "the atmosphere that exists today government wide."

He said virtually all the work was requested by the Secret Service in line with its duty to protect the President and his family "both from malicious harm and from safety hazards."

Many of the items listed in a 70-page fine-print breakdown supplied by Sampson dealt with presidential security. But a few didn't—including $89 for "four decorative pillows" for the President's San Clemente den, $475 for a "swimming pool cleaner" for the Key Biscayne compound and $6.83 for "picture frame supplies."

Sampson said some such items will be reclaimed by the government when Nixon leaves office and no longer needs them.

Warren said the same is true for more than $600,000 of the nearly $6 million in communications installations and other work financed by the military at San Clemente and Key Biscayne.

Increases to average 20 per cent

Ohio Bell rate boost OK'd

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio approved today a $98 million increase in rates for the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. The firm had sought rate hikes totaling $165 million.

PUCO said it had accepted a compromise offered by Ohio Bell and "a substantial number of the utility consumers served by the company."

The rate increases granted amount to about 20 per cent, PUCO said.

Ohio Bell asked Aug. 9, 1971, for an overall percentage increase of 34 per cent, PUCO said.

The commission said about one-half of the new revenues will be used by Ohio Bell to pay state and federal taxes.

PUCO said the new rates probably will be reflected on the next bills delivered to customers.

"We are pleased that the commission has acted," said Bruce Galloway, manager of the Ohio Bell office in Washington C.H. "While the increase is less than what we feel is needed, we have agreed to the $98 million compromise because we desperately need more revenue immediately."

"Without this money, major service improvement projects would have had to be delayed and we simply would not have been able to meet the calling needs of customers in the immediate future," Galloway said.

The commission said residential subscribers will pay about 18 per cent more for phone service, and businesses an extra 23 per cent.

Ohio Bell had sought customer increases amounting to about 38 per cent, the commission said.

The commission said it had found, during a test period, that Ohio Bell received a rate of return on its investment of 4.2 per cent. The new rates will increase that to 7.6 per cent, PUCO said.

The commission said it had rejected a proposal by Ohio Bell that population changes automatically result in rate changes.

Extra health levy awaits voters' OK

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners has passed a resolution to place an additional two-tenths mill tax levy on the November ballot for health services, and voted 2-1 to enter an agreement with Gilmore Homes, Inc., for operation of water and sewer systems in the Culpepper Subdivision No. 3.

The resolution to place the tax levy on the ballot stated that the health district revenues will be in sufficient to meet the expenses of the Fayette County Health District Program. The proposed levy is for five years.

A formal request for additional funds was submitted to the commissioners in June by the Board of Health. At that time, Dr. William E. Covert, health commissioner, speculated that a two-tenths levy would produce an additional $20,000 per year. The board's action was recommended by the Fayette County Health Advisory Council earlier this year.

COMMISSIONER J. Herbert Perrill protested the board's action in entering the agreement for operation of the Culpepper water and sewer facilities.

Perrill said the developer, Jess Gilmore, president of Gilmore Homes, Inc., could form his own utility to operate the systems, or could negotiate with the city to have sewer lines extended to the subdivision. He said the county is not obligated to provide the services.

"This is another example where an individual can do something himself, yet he asks a governmental agency to do it for him," Perrill said.

Commissioners Ray Warner and Robert Mace previously signed an agreement of intent to assume operation of the water and sewer

Nixon lawyers defend subpoena refusal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawyers for President Nixon told a federal judge today that the court lacks jurisdiction to enforce the subpoena served on the President by Watergate special prosecutor Archibald Cox.

An attempt to enforce the subpoena demanding presidential tape recordings, they said, "would be an unwarranted and unsupported violation of the constitutional doctrine of separation of powers."

J. Fred Buzhardt, special White House counsel, in a court appearance lasting less than two minutes, filed a lengthy legal brief supporting the

PUCO cited its position in another case, that "any such judgment should be made on an industry-wide basis, and not merely with respect to a single company because of the magnitude of such a change in the regulatory system."

Commissioners Sally W. Bloomfield and Carl R. Johnson signed the order. Chairman Edmund Turk abstained

because, he said, he was a member of the Cleveland City Council when the application was filed.

It was the first rate hike approved for Ohio Bell in more than three years.

Bribery, extortion, tax fraud alleged

Agnew under investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew says he is under investigation for possible criminal violations but has done nothing wrong. Newspaper reports today said the investigation involves allegations of bribery, extortion and tax fraud.

Agnew made the disclosure Monday night through his press secretary, J. Marsh Thomson, and declined further comment "other than to say that I am innocent of any wrongdoing, that I have confidence in the criminal justice system of the United States and that I am equally confident my innocence will be affirmed."

The Wall Street Journal said the allegations against Agnew stem from the award of state contracts during Agnew's tenure as governor of Maryland in 1967-1968 and from federal contracts in Maryland let since Agnew became vice president in 1969. The federal contracts were let by the General Services Administration, the agency in charge of constructing federal buildings.

The Washington Post and the Baltimore Sun also reported that the investigation involved allegations of kickbacks from private contractors to Baltimore County and Maryland political figures.

The Journal said the investigation is being conducted by U.S. Atty. George Beall of Baltimore and that Agnew was notified formally by the Justice Department last week in a hand-delivered letter.

The newspaper said the vice president sought a White House audience after learning of the investigation, presumably to inform President Nixon.

A Nixon spokesman declined comment Monday night but said the White House was aware of Agnew's statement before it was released.

The Journal said the letter to Agnew was cleared by Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson, who then notified Special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox, although there is no direct connection of the case with Watergate.

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — Mead Paper officials reported "no significant progress" Monday in contract talks with United Paperworkers International Union locals as the deadline approaches for a threatened strike this weekend.

The company's old contract expired Aug. 1.

Nixon shocked, Kleindienst says

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon was "dumbfounded" when told that his closest aides had been accused in the Watergate case in mid-April of this year, former Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst said today.

Kleindienst told the Senate Watergate committee that he first learned of accusations by White House counsel John W. Dean III and former Nixon campaign deputy Jeb Stuart Magruder early in the morning of April 15.

He said he immediately sought a meeting with Nixon, and relayed the information to him early that afternoon in Nixon's office.

"He was dumbfounded, he was very upset," Kleindienst said.

Kleindienst said Justice Department officials told him, and he told the President, that Dean and Magruder had implicated former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, campaign aide Frederick C. LaRue, themselves, White House aides H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, former campaign aide Robert C. Mardian, "you name it."

"This is the first time since June 17, 1972, that anybody had given me any credible evidence that any of them were involved in any way," Kleindienst said.

He said G. Gordon Liddy, later convicted in the case, approached him at the Burning Tree Country Club hours after the burglary, and told him that some of the five men arrested that morning might be employed by the White House or the Nixon campaign committee.

"My reaction to that statement was instantaneous and rather abrupt," said Kleindienst, who became head of the Justice Department shortly before that time.

Kleindienst said he immediately called Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen, head of the criminal division of the Justice Department, and told him in Liddy's presence that no special treatment should be given to the arrested men.

"I told him I was rather intent on giving him a rather specific direct instruction right then, that with respect to those arrested in the Watergate, they should be given no treatment different from others arrested in circumstances of that kind," Kleindienst said.

memorandum dealing with the transfer of Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt Jr. from the White House staff to the President's re-election committee along with political memos White House aide Gordon Strachan wrote to presidential chief of staff H. R. Haldeman.

The President voluntarily turned over the documents but refused to yield the tapes.

The Senate Watergate committee has served the President with two subpoenas. One demanded tapes of five conversations; the other, all documents relating to the 1972 cam-appointed U.S. attorney by Nixon in 1970, refused to confirm or deny that Agnew has become a subject of his investigation. The New York law firm of Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison is representing Agnew and a spokesman said a representative would be in Washington today to find out more about the case.

The Journal said Agnew has not been called to testify in the case and the prosecutors have not presented the evidence they have assembled to a grand jury sitting in Baltimore.

If the case did proceed to the grand jury stage, the prosecutors would have to confront the constitutional doctrine of separation of powers, the doctrine Nixon is invoking in the Watergate case, the Journal said.

2nd bombing error kills 4 civilians

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Another accidental U.S. bombing near here was reported today as the U.S. Embassy announced casualties in the B52 bombing Monday of a government base town on the Mekong River totaled more than 400 dead and wounded.

The second bombing in error, this time by a U.S. F111 fighter-bomber, was reported to have killed four civilians and injured 13 on a government-held island southeast of Phnom Penh in the Mekong.

The island was six miles upstream from Neak Luong, the naval base town on which a U.S. B52 heavy bomber dropped a string of bombs before dawn Monday.

U.S. Embassy spokesman Donald Doergel said he had heard reports of the second bombing accident but "I don't wish to talk about it."

There was no letup in the U.S. bombing. Heavy explosions could be heard from areas around Phnom Penh as U.S. fighter-bombers kept up their support of government ground forces. There was no word of B52 operations, but it was considered unlikely that there had been any curtailment because of the tragedy at Neak Luong, 32 miles southeast of Phnom Penh.

The casualty toll at Neak Luong rose today as U.S. Embassy officials said the count now was 137 killed and 268 injured.

It was the worst bombing accident of the Indochina war, and it came just nine days before American bombing of Cambodia is scheduled to end. The worst previous such incident was the American bombing of the South Vietnamese village of Lang Vei on March 2, 1967, when 83 villagers were killed and 176 wounded.

The U.S. air attaché in Phnom Penh, Col. David H. E. Opfer, 47, of Baltimore, visited Neak Luong four hours after the predawn bombing and said it resulted from "human or mechanical error."

The Pentagon said part of one B52's bombs fell short of the target.

"There are two factors—men and machines—and they can go wrong,"

Opfer told a midnight news conference punctuated by the thud of distant bomb explosions. "Somehow or other this plane went astray and Neak Luong was bombed by accident."

A string of more than 30 bombs hit in a line more than two-thirds of a mile long down the main street of the town, the colonel reported. He said the bombs blasted the office and living quarters of the garrison commander, Lt. Col. An Nil, who was unhurt; the market place; a hospital; a military command post; and army and marine living quarters.

Blanchester resident killed in auto crash

FAYETTEVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Mike Cunningham, 16, of Blanchester, was killed Monday night when the car in which he was riding went out of control while passing another, overturned into a ditch and hit a tree.

The accident happened on Fayetteville-Blanchester Road, three miles north of U.S. 50.

He said he immediately told Liddy to leave the premises, along with Powell Moore, a public relations man for the Nixon campaign committee who had accompanied Liddy.

Kleindienst began testifying to the Senate Watergate committee shortly after the panel decided to postpone filing its suit to obtain White House tapes.

Kleindienst said he vaguely recalls that Liddy claimed to have been sent by former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, who was then Nixon's campaign director.

"That was incredible to me," Kleindienst said. "My relationship with Mr. Mitchell was such that I don't think he'd send a man like Gordon Liddy to see me about anything."

Kleindienst said he had met Liddy before, in 1969, when Liddy was the Treasury Department's representative on an administration task force that tried to stem the flow of illegal marijuana across the border from Mexico.

Kleindienst said Liddy had been sent to talk about the antipol drive with Nixon has refused to comply with the committee subpoenas.

President Nixon forecast the stand his lawyers will take in a letter to Sirica notifying the judge he would not comply with Cox's subpoena.

"In doing so," the President wrote "I follow the example of a long line of my predecessors as President of the United States who have consistently adhered to the position that the President is not subject to compulsory process from the courts."

Patman panel eyes finances, credit crunch

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the prime interest rate at an all-time high, the House Banking Committee is preparing to investigate the nation's financial structure and its impact on the credit crunch.

Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the committee, says he wants the panel to write a plan for stabilizing soaring interest rates.

The prime lending rate, the figure charged banks' most credit worthy customers, reached 9 per cent throughout the industry Monday, the highest rate on record.

The prime rate was 6 per cent at the beginning of the year.

Since January, the Banking Committee staff has been preparing an analysis of financial institutions and regulations and considering possible reforms.

Before Congress began a month-long recess last Friday, Patman, a persistent critic of high lending rates, said his panel will hold hearings in September to "consider all aspects of the current credit crunch and the manner in which it is related to financial structure and regulation."

He promised the committee will draft specific legislation in September or early October to stabilize interest rates.

In a letter to committee members, Patman acknowledged "many divisions of opinion" within the panel about key financial issues.

Interest rates are exempt from controls under President Nixon's economic-stabilization program.

facilities. Perrill refused to sign the agreement.

Board members stressed that no tax money would be used to operate the facilities. The developer is to pay all expenses including power, chemicals, maintenance, repair, testing, labor and supervision. The agreement also calls for the users of the system to be assessed as the development is completed.

WARNER commented that the water and sewer system would be operated similar to the one at the I-71 and U.S. 35 interchange. That system has 20 users. Ninety-three lots are contained in the Culpepper Subdivision No. 3.

Perrill also cited an increased work load as a reason for opposing the plan. He said if the commissioners continue to take over such operations the county will have to set up a department to handle it, or hire additional clerical personnel. Mace countered with a statement that if the county must hire additional personnel to handle the workload, the users of the facilities will pay the cost through assessments.

Mace also said that it has been the experience in other counties that private operation of such facilities is unsuccessful, and the county ends up taking control.

Perrill said he was not at all sure if this would be the case. Mace cited Pleasant Valley as one case where the developer installed the systems and the people were now asking the commissioners to operate them.

Mace contended that the commissioners have been seeking centralized building developments for the past three or four years, rather than having small subdivisions all over the county. He said he feels the commissioners should have some say in the operation of the water and sewer facilities. Perrill said this was the opinion of the previous Board of Commissioners and he does not share that opinion.

Warner said he thinks the centralized systems will provide better health and welfare for the people of Fayette County.

IN OTHER ACTION Monday, the commissioners entered an agreement with Jay C. Bryant for the painting of the entrance to the GAR Hall, and a partition in the Probate Court offices.

O.M. Riegel, county welfare director, was authorized to attend the summer meeting of the Ohio Welfare Directors Association Aug. 6 and 7 in Columbus, and the County Welfare Seminar Aug. 10 in Columbus.

Commissioners Warner and Perrill plan to attend the Southwest County Commissioners and Engineers meeting in Wilmington on Aug. 15.

Economists see recession possible

NEW YORK (AP) — While 1973 has been a boom year so far, a number of leading economists believe business is in the early stage of a slowdown that could accelerate into recession proportions by mid-1974.

Most of the economists interviewed by The Associated Press expected the slowdown would continue and probably worsen next year, but few made an outright prediction of recession. When they did, they said it would be moderate and not necessarily bad for the country or consumers.

The economists were in general agreement on three other major economic questions.

They predicted:

—The inflation rate would continue to rise, but not as sharply as this year.

—Unemployment would increase slightly to 5 or 5½ per cent.

—A credit crunch on the order of 1969-70 was unlikely, although interest rates would remain steep.

When a slowdown becomes a recession can be a semantic problem. The National Bureau of Economic Research defines a recession as two or more consecutive quarters of decline in the "real" Gross National Product — GNP — discounted for price increases.

Many economists are now talking in terms of a 1974 "growth recession," in which real GNP continues to expand but at less than its customary minimum level of 4-4½ per cent.

One economist who believes an actual recession is inevitable and the only question is when it will occur is Milton Friedman of the University of Chicago.

A monetarist who links growth of the money supply to rising prices, Friedman sees recession as good for the national interest. He says it would "correct" prices that have been driven sky high by the country's insatiable demand for goods and services.

It all depends on the policies of the Federal Reserve Board, which acts as the nation's money manager, according to Friedman. If the Fed tightens the country's money supply it would increase the likelihood of a recession in 1974, but if the Fed allows money to expand at the level of the first six months of this year that prospect would be delayed.

"You can only go on a drinking bout for so long," says Friedman. "Sooner or later you're going to have a hang-over."

Another economist who expects an actual recession is Albert Sommers of the Conference Board, a nonprofit economic research organization.

But he believes it can be "quite moderate" because there are plenty of cushioning influences. These include a turnaround in the U.S. trade balance as a result of the two dollar devaluations and the general optimism of business regarding long-term capital spending.

But the average American worker may take home a somewhat slimmer paycheck, Sommers says.

"It will mean less overtime and a certain amount of layoffs, but we're not talking about a deep recession."

John Kendrick, a fellow economist

with Sommers at the Conference Board, disagrees with his colleague's predictions. Kendrick says an actual recession in 1974 is possible but a growth recession is much more likely.

He sees the deepening slowdown as a direct consequence of a corporate profit squeeze induced by Phase 4 controls. While business could suffer next year, it might not be so bad for workers, he adds.

"The consumer will be getting ahead of the game a little bit," Kendrick predicts. "Wage rates will go up 6-6½

Shoppers in scattered parts of the nation are reported to be stocking up on meat in fear of higher prices or a serious shortage. They're "like kids going after cookies," one grocer observed.

A survey indicates higher prices of some meat products, occasional rationing of beef and industry predictions of more problems to come.

A number of bulk purchasers, including New York City and several Navy installations, reported they had run out of beef.

In San Francisco, a federal judge refused on Monday to order the Cost of Living Council to lift the freeze on beef prices. U.S. District Court Judge Robert F. Peckham turned down a preliminary injunction request from the Pacific Meat Jobbers Association, which represents 80 wholesalers and packers of beef products.

In Washington, Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz said again that the freeze will remain in effect until Sept. 12.

On the retail level, grocers reported some shortages and expressed fear the worst was still to come. There was only scattered rationing by stores, however.

The manager of a supermarket near Spokane, Wash., said he was limiting purchases of ground beef, pot roasts and chicken but not steak. "We wouldn't have this problem if the customers would ration themselves," Bill Scalise said. "We can't watch them all the time. When I go out and come back, there's no meat in the case."

U.S. citizens are also buying foreign beef. Customs inspectors in California report large numbers of Americans returning from Tijuana, Mexico, with meat purchases. Butcher shops in Tijuana report selling meat to Americans as fast as they get it from the slaughterhouse. Customs officials Albany, N.Y., also reported an increase in Americans returning with Canadian meat.

New York City has run out of beef for prisoners, hospital patients and day-per cent and there will be some slowdown in inflation, with prices rising 4-5 per cent. So he'll see some improvement in terms of purchasing power."

Consumers' buying plans indicate they're becoming more cautious in their appraisal of future economic conditions. A May-June survey by the Conference Board indicates a "significant decrease" in the number of families who expect business conditions to improve and an increase in the number who think they'll get worse.

Beef shortage to grow worse?

care children. In Quonset Point, R.I., the naval officer who purchases food for commissaries in New England said he has been unable to buy meat for the 80,000 to 100,000 patrons in Rhode Island, Connecticut, Massachusetts and New York.

The shortage has been attributed in part to the unwillingness of farmers to send their cattle to market during the freeze. "There's a lot of beef that's not getting to the market. It's out in the pasture," Culberston said.

A high pressure area along the Atlantic Coast is still dominating Ohio weather, with little change seen in the immediate future. Skies will be mostly sunny today and the mercury will climb into the 80s again Tuesday afternoon.

An area of lower pressure over the northern plains is still creeping eastward and is expected to reach the upper Mississippi Valley by Wednesday morning. The threat of showers will increase in Ohio as the low pressure and its related cold front approach the Great Lakes, with showers most likely by Wednesday night or Thursday.

There were a few clouds over Ohio Monday night and an isolated shower developed over Mansfield but most sections reported clear skies. It was hazy across the state and local areas of fog developed mainly along the Ohio River. Early morning temperatures were in the 60s, ranging from 58 at Toledo to 70 at Akron-Canton.

There will be a chance of showers Thursday and Friday, followed by clearing skies Saturday. It will be warm all three days, with highs in the upper 80s and low 90s. Lows all three days will be in the 60s and low 70s.

He said he had heard rumors around Washington that people would be eating "Nixonburgers" in the future. He said the ingredients for the so-called sandwich would be patties of shredded public documents and bits of ground-up sound tapes.

The governor praised Rep. Myrl Shoemaker, who attended the banquet, as the "Wilbur Mills of Ohio." Gilligan stressed Rep. Shoemaker's work in getting the record budget approved.

THE LUNCHEON was sponsored by the Fayette County Democratic Executive Committee, under the direction of Chairman Milbourne Barney. Laurence (Bucky) Dumford, a member of Gov. Following his Washington C.H. visit, the governor was scheduled to make an appearance at the Clinton County Fair in Wilmington and attend a practice session of the Cincinnati Bengals at Wilmington College. Stock prices move lower

NEW YORK (AP) — After a small gain in early-session trading, stock market prices declined today as brokers cited the continuing pall of higher interest rates and new uncertainties on the political scene.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up nearly 3 points early in the day, was off 2.11 at 910.67. Declining issues held a slight 585-to-547 lead over advances on the New York Stock Exchange, with 1,530 issues traded.

On the Amex the pricechange index at noon stood at 23.35, off .02. Champion Homes led the trading, unchanged at 6¼, while Kaiser Industries, down ¼ at 6¾, and Circle K Corp., off ⅜ to 13, were active also.

On the Big Board, Arlen Realty topped the volume list at 5½, down ¼. It was followed by Interco, Inc., off 1¼ to 39¼, and Smith International, up ¾ to 21¼.

Dollar opens higher, drops

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar opened generally higher in Europe today but weakened as trading progressed.

The U.S. currency advanced in London, Paris and Zurich at the outset but was down in West Germany. Dealers there blamed the drop on a technical reaction to the dollar's strong climb on Monday.

The dollar closed Monday in Frankfurt at 2.3850 marks. It opened today at 2.3840 marks and dropped steadily through the morning to 2.3640.

See supply of newsprint tightening

WASHINGTON (AP) — The supply of newsprint for the nation's newspapers is tight and may get tighter, which probably will result in more 15-cent newspapers and higher advertising rates in the future, according to industry spokesmen.

The country's 1,761 daily newspapers have been under warning for some time from the American Newspaper Publisher's Association that demand for newsprint is catching up with supply.

"The present situation is not yet acute," said Stanford Smith, president of the ANPA. "The situation is that newspapers cannot get large shipments as fast as they might like to have them with the exact specifications they would like to get," he added.

Smith said he had not heard of any cases where newspapers have missed editions because of a lack of newsprint, but added a number of newspapers have taken steps to avoid wasting newsprint.

3 Lima men feared dead

LITTLE CURRENT, Ont. (AP) — Aircraft searched unsuccessfully Monday for three Lima, Ohio, men missing and presumed drowned near Manitoulin Island, in Lake Huron between Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

The three men—Rex Matthews, 52, Thomas Berger, 43, and Donald Durham, 40—left Meldrum Bay, at the northwest tip of Manitoulin, for Vidal Bay, about 12 miles away, on a fishing trip last Wednesday.

Some of their supplies were found in a cabin at Vidal Bay, but no trace of the men or their boat has been found.

The search has been restricted to aircraft so far because of rough water, but if weather permits, a police boat will join the search Tuesday.

Skylab crew in record space walk

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — With a record space walk on the books, Skylab 2's astronauts today resume experiments in their orbiting laboratory.

The flight plan called for mostly medical experiments for Alan L. Bean, Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma. But Garriott, a solar physicist, planned a long-awaited study of the sun with a battery of eight telescopes.

Garriott and Lousma loaded the telescope cameras with film Monday during a record space walk in which they were outside the station 6 hours, 31 minutes. That's nearly double the previous mark set by two Skylab 1 astronauts in June.

During the excursion, they also raised a new sunshade over their space home, worked with two scientific experiments and examined three trouble areas on the spacecraft.

Monday's space walk had been set for 3½ hours, but it was extended an extra three hours because of difficulties in erecting the shade.

They discovered no new clues to Skylab's problems.

The major problems afflicting the station on the 11th day of the Skylab 2 mission are:

—Leaks in two steering rocket systems on the Apollo taxi ship in which the astronauts are to return to earth on Sept. 25 after 59 days in space. Experts say the craft is still flyable. In case they don't understand the problem, or it gets worse, the space agency has ordered a rescue rocket prepared at Cape Kennedy for a possible launch Sept. 10 or later.

Stevie Wonder hurt in crash

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Blind soul singer Stevie Wonder is in satisfactory condition after being injured in a highway accident, Baptist Hospital said today.

Wonder, 23, was hurt when a car driven by John Harris, 24, of New York City collided with a logging truck Monday near Salisbury. Harris was listed in good condition.

Wonder and Harris were taken to Rowan Memorial Hospital in Salisbury after the wreck. Wonder later was transferred to the larger Baptist Hospital.

There are 3,500 dog shows held in Britain each year.

—A leak in a refrigeration system that cools the workshop and various electric equipment. On Monday it was feared both the primary and backup systems had leaks. Analysis showed that only the primary system was faulty and that the secondary is sufficient to support Skylab 2 as well as the following two-month Skylab 3 mission. Still, troubleshooters would like to know the cause of the leak.

—A large short circuit that occurred in the solar telescope system last week. Its origin is a puzzle, but so far it has not affected the experiments.

—Partial failure of a system that removes excess moisture from the cabin atmosphere. It requires frequent servicing to maintain proper pressure.

The troubles prompted a flight director, Chuck Lewis, to remark on Monday, "I have the feeling that someone doesn't like us at times. It can't be real, but it's happening."

Civilian control eroded

The new these days in such as to induce an almost constant state of bilious indignation mingled with concern. There is no balm in disclosures which underscore the decline in effective civilian control over the military.

This was sharply brought to attention by the testimony of former Air Force Secretary Robert C. Seamans Jr. as to his ignorance of the falsified bombing in Cambodia in 1969 and 1970. It seems that he was not let in on the secret because as Air Force secretary he was not in the operational chain of command. That chain extends from the President and Secretary of Defense to the Joint Chiefs of Staff and thence to field commanders, bypassing the service secretaries. Thus in the case of the clandestine Cambodian bombing, the civilian head of the Air Force was relegated to the ranks of those not having what the Pentagon calls "a need to know."

This is not the first such episode. The New York Times reports, for instance, that "while running for the Senate last year in Rhode Island, former Secretary of the Navy John H. Chafee said he had not known planes were mining the harbors of North Vietnam in the spring of 1972 and would have objected if he had been informed."

It can be argued that leaving the service secretaries in the dark about what their forces are up to makes for greater centralization and hence effectiveness of command. However, this also tends to erode civilian control of the military, strengthening the hand of the Joint Chiefs.

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

Rare resolution voted to stem Nixon

WASHINGTON — The poison of corruption that is like a moral smog in the atmosphere of this capital hangs heavy over the tragedy of Cambodia. However much the decision-makers may be sinned by the failure of a policy doomed to failure from the start, the real victims are the peasants who once lived a comfortable life in what was a green oasis.

For all the B-52 sorties, the economic aid, the masterminding of the bombing attacks by American specialists, the Lon Nol government could not be propped up with sufficient muscle to negotiate even if the Communist Khmer Rouge had been interested in negotiating. The end is near, and it will be a bitter defeat for American policy, with so much suffering inflicted on helpless people.

The Congress adjourned with a resolution showing deep distrust of President Nixon's intentions. While the Constitution gives the President authority to call Congress back into session, the resolution provides that congressional leaders may bring about a recall. Not unprecedented, such a resolution is nevertheless rare.

A STRONG suspicion that the President intended to continue the bombing after the Aug. 15 deadline was the reason for the resolution. The compromise pried out of the White House for a cutoff by mid-August was hardly a triumph of statesmanship. Congressional leaders were convinced the President would veto an immediate halt as he threatened to do.

A potent advocate of the resolution was Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, who has had a long, continuing relationship with Cambodia and the deposed ruler, Prince Norodom Sihanouk. Mansfield is going to China during the recess, hoping to see Sihanouk in Peking. The Prince believes he will be restored to power by the Khmer Rouge when Phnom Penh falls and the fighting ends.

In the embittered controversy over the secret bombing Sihanouk had an ambivalent role. Documents are in existence showing he knew of the

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

In respect to the letter that Martha Reiff had published in The Herald, dated Aug. 3, regarding the beautification of the downtown section of Washington C.H., with trees to be planted in boxes provided, I wish to make a comment to the committee to make some consideration as to the beautification of the outskirts of our town.

Beginning Sept. 1, as published in The Herald some time ago, "all refuse and garbage" is to be placed by the users of such, at the curbs not more than three feet from the streets, and is to be picked up by refuse collectors weekly. Some sections of the city have no access to alleys, therefore it would be justified to place their refuse at this point, but as long as we do have some alleys accessible, why can't they be used for pickups.

The rusty old drums that some use to burn or store refuse have been unsightly and offensive, but not nearly as such when garbage and trash is placed at the curbs along streets.

Advertising papers are also a menace, for they are thrown onto the porches or yards and they make for more trash to be picked up and we have to pay for hauling them away, besides over-crowding the trash. I am in favor of the ban on burning trash and such, but the smelly garbage in our front yards won't help much, and the bags of refuse which might entice dogs, cats, or rats.

Also it might be a chore for some users to carry their refuse, etc and I for one am not able to lift or haul such materials to the curbs.

Can't someone do something about this situation?

Mrs. Willis E. McCov

Immunization declining

It is a tragic irony that, for one reason or another, large numbers of people in this most affluent of lands miss out on the full benefits of modern medical knowledge. To illustrate, a great many Americans are not fully immunized against diseases which can be stopped cold by vaccination: we know how to control such disease, but that know-how is not as widely applied as it might be.

The United States Center for Disease Control is keenly aware of this. In particular it is concerned because levels of immunization against various diseases are on the decline.

Poliomyelitis offers a striking example, all the more so because such drama attended the discovery of anti-polio vaccines. We are now told that anti-polio immunization levels have been steadily declining over the past several years. Doctors have begun warning that this poses the danger of epidemics such as those that afflicted the nation in the 1950s.

Other diseases involved in the decline of immunization levels are rubelle, measles, whooping cough, diphtheria, tetanus.

Happily, the Center for Disease Control is undertaking a nationwide program to do two things - identify those not adequately immunized, and see that they receive vaccinations. In this effort the CDC will have the cooperation of various health agencies. It is a sensible and badly needed effort. And should it prove advisable to have mass vaccination clinics, a la the 1960s, that ought to be done.

Agriculture is Canada's most important primary industry, although it employs less than eight per cent of the country's labor force.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

He's on the verge of being chump for rich widow

DEAR ABBY: I am a 55-year-old man whose wife died three years ago. I am going with a 51-year-old widow. She is a high class, attractive woman whose husband left her as well off financially as I am. (Maybe better.) I am not the only man she goes with, and I see other women, but we both see more of each other because we seem to enjoy each other's company more. (Yes, it is a "love" affair, too.)

This woman is always suggesting that I buy her expensive presents. I never figured her for a gold digger, mainly because she can buy anything she wants, but she insists that I buy her things. I haven't bought her anything, yet, but I am on the verge.

She's never bought me anything, but then, why should she?

Part of me says, "Buy her something to please her," but part of me says, "Why should you? Don't be a chump." What do you say?

NOT TIGHT-JUST CAREFUL

DEAR NOT: "Why should you? Don't be a chump." (P. S. If she's no gold digger, she shouldn't act like one.)

DEAR ABBY: This is just like waking up in the middle of a nightmare! We have been married for two years and are now in the process of moving. Yesterday I found nine handwritten "thank you" notes I had written for wedding gifts received shortly after we were married. They had fallen behind a desk drawer.

I feel two inches high, knowing that these people have never been thanked for their wedding presents. They are probably wondering what kind of manners I have. Or do you think they have forgotten about it by now?

MORTIFIED

DEAR MORTIFIED: It's a hundred to one they have not forgotten. Better late than never. Send the original "thank you" note, explaining exactly what happened. They'll understand.

DEAR ABBY: My mother in law lives in another state. I write her long, newsy letters about once every three or four weeks.

If I'm a little late getting a letter off to her, she calls mutual relatives long distance, telling them she is worried sick about me because she hasn't heard from me in so long.

Abby, she is not senile. She's sharp as a tack. I am on to her little stunt. She just does this to give the relatives the impression that I neglect her. (I do not!) If she is really worried about me, why doesn't she call ME instead of calling everybody else?

Any suggestions?

BUGGED

DEAR BUGGED: Short circuit her little stunt and be sure she gets an "I am fine" post card every week without fail.

DEAR ABBY: I have read and reread that letter about "Grandma" who put $200 in the bank every month while she lived off her married daughter. Grandma kept promising this daughter she would get everything when she (grandma) passed away.

That brought back memories of my own experience. I took care of an ailing uncle for many, many years. His own children never bothered with him. This uncle must have said a thousand times: "When I die, you are going to get everything I have."

Well, Uncle never made a will, and when he died his estate which was considerable, was divided up according to law. Guess who never got a dime?

"ME" IN ILLINOIS

DEAR ME: You belong to a large club. But there is no subtle way to suggest that someone make a will.

In 1804, an American fleet bombarded the Mediterranean port of Tripoli.

In 1912, a Progressive party convention in Chicago nominated Theodore Roosevelt for president.

In 1959, the Chinese Communists invaded a northeastern frontier area of India.

In 1963, the American first lady, Mrs. John F. Kennedy, gave birth to a son in Otis Air Force Base hospital on Cape Cod. The infant died two days later.

Ten years ago: West Germany announced that more than 16,000 East Germans had escaped to the West in the two years since the Communists built the Berlin Wall.

Five years ago: Richard M. Nixon won the Republican nomination for president at the party's national convention in Miami Beach.

Board holds 'post mortem' on '73 Fayette County Fair

The Fayette County Fair Board met Monday to assess the 1973 exposition. The essence of their discussion was that the most important consideration next year should be the weather. Profits were off this year as was attendance. The rain not only affected the Fair directly, but it also forced the Lions Club to close some parking areas and turn away a number of cars. In light of this, the board launched plans to install additional tiles to aid drainage of the grounds. It was also decided that the old horse barn should

ASK THE LINDSAY MAN

Q. How do I pamper the vitamins when cooking fresh vegetables?

A. A little TLC, please. Wash them thoroughly but don't soak. Cook them in as little water as possible, quickly as possible and, when you can, cook them whole. If you use soft water, there are bonuses: You remove garden soil easily and bring out full natural colors. Vegetables look and taste better.

Q. How much soap is needed for washing clothes in soft water?

A. If with hard water you use one full cup of soap per washer, with soft water cut down to a scant coffee measure full. Amazing? Soft water leaves clothes soft, fluffy, comfortable, too—free of soap curd. And, think what you're doing for ecology!

Copleys home from 'Good News' Convention

Rev. and Mrs. Cloyce D. Copley, 221 Gardner Court, returned home Sunday afternoon from a week's trip to a "Good News" convocation held at Lake Junaluska, N. C. They were housed in the beautiful colonial hotel, which was a five-minute walk from the Stuart auditorium where the united public meetings took place. This has been the site for Methodist camp meetings of the area for a long time. Nearly all the states in the union were represented by delegates from laity and ministry, old as well as young.

Ohio had the largest delegation. This was the fourth yearly nationwide "Good News" convocation. The second was held in Cincinnati, of which the Rev. Mr. Copley was present. Rev. Roy Putnam of Greensboro, N.C. was the Bible teacher of the early morning session; Rev. David Seamands of Wilmore, Ky., of the Asbury College church, also used the Ephesians Epistle of Paul to bring advice on the 'Nitty Gritty of Family Living.' Twelve two-hour seminars were held each afternoon on the various problems of church activity in the busy world of today. Young people and children held their own programs in other meeting places about the camp. Harrell Hall, Lambuth Hall, and the World Methodist Building were some of the other meeting places for the activities.

The 14 Junaluska Singers which provided entertainment and leadership for the congregational singing of the week are also available for each week of the three months summer camp at the lake. They work in the schools and are on the staff of churches throughout the state of North Carolina. Glenn Draper is their leader.

Lake Junaluska is situated in the foothills of the Smokies. En route home, the Copleys stayed overnight and attended Wesley Chapel United Methodist Church at 83 East McMicken in Cincinnati, which church is on the site of Old Asbury 3-D, the latter served by the Rev. Mr. Copley from 1949-1953.

The Rev. Ralph Gibson served as chaplain at Memorial Hospital while Rev. Mr. Copley was gone.

Money Does Matter . . .

By David G. Looker

HAVE YOU THOUGHT ABOUT WORKING FOR YOURSELF?

An investment effort doesn't have to be centered on stocks or securities.

One who is operating his own business is involved in an investment program.

With an accumulation of substantial savings, many have taken advantage of business opportunities and been successful.

Legion are the dramatic accounts of small businesses that have grown and prospered into large industrial and merchandising enterprises.

Basic, however, in addition to adequate money resources, is "know-how", plus, in lesser degree, initiative, drive, perseverance, and the willingness to endure hardship and sacrifices.

The great growth of the franchising industry has often lessened the need for "know-how", because the formulas for successful operation are included in legitimate franchising "packages".

However, before starting a business of your own, talk with a commercial banker, and consult an attorney before entering into any agreement!

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Howard S. Harper, who celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on July 18th.

Good luck to Mike Domenico and his teammates in the upcoming North-South All Star Football Game at Canton on August 10th.

Based on our knowledge and experience in the world of business and finance, we can advise and guide you, without cost or obligation.

Astros nip Cincy, 5-4

Slow curve answer for Dan Driessen

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Jerry Reuss had made up his mind. Danny Driessen was not about to get a fastball.

"He had been hitting my fastball all night," said Reuss, who went all the way to pitch the Houston Astros to a 5-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Monday night.

"I had to come up with something different."

What Reuss came up with was a slow curve and it proved to be the answer for the hot hitting rookie, who flied to right ending the game with the tying run on second base.

Reuss, 12-8, took a 5-3 lead into the ninth and fanned the first two batters he faced. Pete Rose then doubled, stretching his hitting streak to nine games then scored on a single by Joe Morgan.

Morgan then stole second, his 43rd heist of the season, tops in the National League.

"I did everything I could to keep him from stealing," the Astro lefty said. "That's just how good he is."

Driessen has hit safely in the last 18 games he has started and owned a .340 batting average as he stepped to the plate in the ninth. Earlier he had Reuss fastballs for a double and single.

But this time Reuss's slow curve got Driessen to fly to right. The victory gave Reuss three wins over the Reds this year.

Fittingly, Astro outfielder Jimmy Wynn made the final out. He had powered the Houston offense all evening.

Mired in a slump with just two hits in his last 40 at bats entering the game, Wynn hit two singles, walked, stole two bases, scored three runs and drove in one to help Houston to its second victory in the five game series.

"We couldn't leave here with them winning four of the five games," Houston Manager Leo Durocher said. "We've got to keep them close to the Dodgers so there's a race in the Western Division."

The loss, only Cincinnati's tenth in the last 38 games, was charged to Jack Billingham. He went all the way to suffer his eighth loss against 15 wins.

Cincinnati now trails the Dodgers by four games, and five in the loss column. Houston will have a lot to say about which team wins the division title.

"We have nine games left with Los Angeles and we always play well against them," Durocher said.

The slumping Chicago Cubs invade Riverfront Stadium tonight with Rich Reuschel, 12-8, facing Cincinnati's Don Gullett, 12-8.

Domenico named co-captain for all-star grid classic

CANTON — Washington C. H.'s Mike Domenico has been named one of the co-captains for the 28th annual Ohio High School North-South All-Star football game which will be played Friday night at Canton's Fawcett Stadium.

Domenico, the 6-foot-1, 210-pound double duty ace who captained Washington C. H.'s football team last autumn, will be the South team's offensive captain and is scheduled for a starting berth at offensive center where he earned All-Ohio second team accolades as a senior with the Blue Lions. Mike Boggs, of Columbus Upper Arlington, is the defensive captain.

After whisking through their first week of workouts, the North and South squads are embarking on their final three days of drills prior to Friday's 8:30 p.m. classic.

BOTH SIDES will practice through Thursday in the series that matches the top 1972 high school seniors from around the state. The game will be televised.

The North has won the last two contests to deadlock the series at 12 victories apiece. Three games ended in ties, but the Ohio High School Athletic Association's sudden death playoff rule will be applied in this year's game if necessary. That is because of a change in format for the second Ohio - Pennsylvania Big 33 game the following week.

The winning team goes to Hershey, Pa., intact for that game. Last year's Ohio team for the Big 33 game was chosen from players on both teams in the North-South game.

One change has been made in the South roster and one of the Rebel players quit the team. Bill Lukens, a guard from Cincinnati St. Xavier, has replaced Rick Applegate, of Cincinnati Deer Park, who faces an operation.

Dave Migliore, the Eastern District's Class AAA Player of the Year, quit the South team last Thursday because he wasn't assigned to play quarterback.

The 6-foot-1, 185-pound Dover High School passing ace claimed South team head coach Ken Amlin assigned him to the defensive team despite his outstanding offensive record. Migliore had a 3,000-yard total for the past two years and was selected as the Associated Press' first team Class AAA quarterback for 1972.

Amlin, of Dayton Patterson, said the South team will be one player short going into the game because Migliore cannot be replaced.

Wallace to leave for new job soon

Chuck Wallace, a familiar face around Fayette County sports circles, will be leaving here within the next two weeks to become head wrestling coach and an assistant football coach at Chillicothe High School.

The 29-year-old Wallace, who has been city recreation director the past three summers and a member of Miami Trace's coaching staff the past seven years, will join head coach Kern McKee's football staff and will work with the guards, centers and defensive ends.

Wallace started the wrestling program at Miami Trace in 1966-67 and became immensely successful by compiling a 27-25-2 record against some of the toughest competition in Ohio. He coached the Panthers to a 16-7 mark the last two seasons and had four district champions, two of which placed in the state.

During his seven years with the Miami Trace football program, Wallace was a varsity assistant four seasons and head freshman coach three years. Wallace stacked up a 12-14 record as Miami Trace's head track coach in two years and was an assistant under Roy Lucas two years ago.

He was a standout on Miami Trace's first football team in 1961 and was an All-South Central Ohio tackle as a senior. The 1962

CHUCK WALLACE

Miami Trace graduate played football at Muskingum College two seasons before an injury and was graduated in 1966 with bachelor's degree in history and physical education. He joined the faculty at Miami Trace in 1966 and graduated from Xavier University in 1970 with a masters degree in education.

Wallace and his wife, Kay, and three daughters, reside at 1003 Briar Ave.

Yankees tumble to fourth in zany AL East scramble

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After eight innings Monday night, the New York Yankees looked like a first-place team.

Unfortunately, the Yankees' game against the Detroit Tigers lasted 10 innings—and by the time it was over, the Yankees were fourth in the wild American League East, and Detroit was on top of the heap.

First a two-run pinch-homer by husky Frank Howard with two out in the bottom of the ninth capped a three-run rally that erased New York's 4-1 lead and sent the game into extra innings.

Then Aurelio Rodriguez scored all the way from first with the winning run in the 10th inning—thanks to a pair of Yankee throwing errors and a missed play at the plate.

Meanwhile, the Baltimore Orioles, who had been first in the AL East before Monday's play, lost a 5-3 decision to the Boston Red Sox. That dropped Baltimore to second place, one-half game back of Detroit. Boston and New York are each one game out, although the Red Sox are one percentage point ahead of the Yankees.

The Orioles were knocked out of first place by unbeaten, 23-year-old lefthander Roger Moret, who posted his fifth victory of the season with relief help from Bob Bolin.

The Cleveland Indians beat the Chicago White Sox 7-3 in the only other American League game.

In National League action, the New York Mets beat the St. Louis Cardinals 10-3, the Houston Astros edged the Cincinnati Reds 5-4, the Montreal Expos topped the Chicago Cubs 7-3 and the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the San Diego Padres 2-0.

Indians 7, White Sox 3
Chris Chambliss' two-run double capped a five-run second-inning outburst that lifted the Indians to a 7-3 decision over the White Sox.

Gaylord Perry, 11-15, went all the way for the victory, giving up five hits.

Mets 10, Cards 3
Harry Parker pitched three scoreless innings of relief, working out of trouble twice, and picked up the win when the Mets rallied for three runs in the seventh and five in the eighth to beat the Cardinals 10-3.

"We played like we were in a daze," said Lou Brock after the Cardinals, the National League's East Division leaders, committed three errors and misplayed a number of other chances.

Astros 5, Reds 4
Jimmy Wynn, who just got over an 0-for-32 skien, rapped out two singles, scored three runs, stole two bases and drove home the tie-breaking run in Houston's 5-4 triumph over the Reds.

Expos 7, Cubs 3
Balor Moore pitched six innings of no-hit ball in Montreal's 7-3 triumph, but Mike Marshall had to come on in the eighth and picked up his 22nd save of the year.

Ken Singleton, Bob Bayless and Jim Lytle homered for Montreal.

Dodgers 2, Padres 0
Al Downing, 9-6, scattered five singles, struck out six and walked just one as the Dodgers stopped the Padres 2-0 and raised their lead in the National League's West Division to four games over second-place Cincinnati.

49ers top Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— San Francisco 49ers Coach Dick Nolan has been drilling his squad in defensive goal line stands and Monday night in Cleveland Stadium it paid off.

The 49ers stopped the Cleveland Browns twice with second down and goal situations and defeated the Browns 27-16 in a National Football League exhibition game.

"We're looking for improvement on the goal line," Nolan said. "We've been working hard and well and put forth a lot of effort."

Forty-niner middle linebacker Frank Nunley threw veteran Browns running back Leroy Kelly for a two-yard loss in one of those stands.

"We weren't doing anything really fancy," Nunley said. "The first time they ran the weak side and (cornerback Bruce) Taylor closed it up."

"We were just doing basic things. We have several variations off the goal line we haven't put in yet."

On both goal line stands the Browns were forced to settle for field goals. The 49ers also capitalized on three Browns' fumbles.

2nd round games set in Legion tournament

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP)—Second round games were scheduled today in the 44th annual American Legion state baseball tournament at Ashland.

Favored Cincinnati Bentley scored eight runs in the first inning and then coasted to a 17-6 victory over Ashtabula Monday in the double elimination tournament.

Stacy Morrow pitched and batted Steubenville to a 7-4 triumph over Athens in another first round game.

Crocker fires ace at Buckeye Hills

Washington C.H.'s Jim Crocker matched Chester Brown's hole-in-one performance at the Washington Country Club by firing an ace Sunday afternoon on the 138-yard No. 6 hole at Buckeye Hills Country Club.

The rare feat was witnessed by Crocker's wife, Pat, Bill and Karen Buck, of Greenfield, and Willie and Dot Bastian, of Leesburg.

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

WEDNESDAY, AUG. 8

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)
Neither be extravagant in an effort to impress others nor fall for any ostentatiousness displayed for your benefit. Concentrate on what's REAL and dependable.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)
Do not overtax yourself, and do avoid anxiety. If you are doing your very best, both in job and personal matters, it will prove rewarding enough.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)
Planetary influences point to new interests. Make sure you are ready for them — but without slighting current obligations. Don't let "moods" cause misunderstandings.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)
Lunar influences now stimulate your business acumen and good timing. There will be many fringe benefits for those ready to expend a little added effort.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23)
To put your ideas across and gain the acceptance you wish, you may have to lean backwards in some areas. So—out with rigidity and inflexibility!

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)
Fine stellar influences. With initiative and enterprise, more than usual can be achieved. Day will definitely respond to ambitious moves.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)
If you've something on your mind, career-wise, now's the time to speak up. Superiors should be receptive to new ideas — logically presented.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)
A hectic working day indicated. Determine to remain calm under all circumstances. "Don't fly off the handle" with associates.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)
Indications of a good financial break. It may come in the form of dividends from a shrewd investment or repayment of a loan long since forgotten.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
Some pleasing surprises in store. You may find, quite unexpectedly, that a hobby or avocation has money-making potential.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
You have considerable freedom of movement now. Best used, it can help to further either personal or creative objectives.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)
Mixed influences. If you have an important decision to make, postpone action until afternoon when hours are propitious. Some confusion likely in the a.m.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a dynamic personality, a gift for leadership and terrific organizing ability. Your versatility is remarkable and you could succeed in almost any field of your choosing — once you have learned self-discipline and have conquered traits of arrogance and impulsiveness. You would make a brilliant actor or writer (especially in the dramatic field), or educator. If business attracts you, manufacturing, banking or brokerage would be the best outlets for your talents.

Encyclopedia sales firm hit by suit
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Atty. Gen. William J. Brown has filed a contempt of court action against a Cleveland-based encyclopedia sales organization.

Brown's affidavit, filed Monday, alleges that Program Learning Inc. falsely offered free encyclopedias in exchange for endorsements and misrepresented the value of its merchandise in violation of a court order last March prohibiting the practices.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Well, it's finally under way. After a heavy meet-the-press and publicity campaign, Hughes Rudd and Sally Quinn have begun life as coanchors of the "CBS Morning News."

However, their dawn debut Monday was slightly under Whoopie on television's scale of excitement, despite pledges by CBS-TV the new offering would be livelier and less formal than before.

The hour-long show seemed about the same as when headed by John Hart and Nelson Benton. Only the cast, set and ad libs were new.

NBC's durable "Today" show, which has been beating all comers since 1952, took no notice whatsoever Monday of the potential ratings threat posed by the new CBS team. It did nothing out of the ordinary.

CBS says the cold was so bad that, just before the show, Miss Quinn was rushed to a hospital for a quick checkup and medication. She immediately repaired to her bed when the show was over.

"Wouldn't you know the first day I come on television I start out with a sore throat and a fever?" she joked as the program began.

"Well, a fever is all right as long as it doesn't make you delirious," mused Mudd. "Actually, there've been a lot of people on television who were delirious. They're usually running for public office."

But after that start, the quality of commentary—on Miss Quinn's part—tended to wander, fall flat or come out just plain silly, particularly after a film story on child labor on California farms.

"I can remember when my father and mother wanted me to clean my room—I thought that was child labor," said Miss Quinn, the daughter of an Army general. "Have you ever tried to pick strawberries for half an hour?"

"You can't do it. It's just absolutely killing work."

Miss Quinn, a good, waspish writer, would have murdered anyone using that line, were she still in the newspaper game. So blame the fever and wait to see how things look when she feels better.

She only seemed up to par when participating in a four-way grilling of Patrick Buchanan, President Nixon's speechwriter.

CBS, looking for improved ratings after years of trying to lure away the "Today" audience, says the new morning news show is carried in its entirety by 161 stations, including all five CBS-owned stations.

Prior to Monday, the show was carried in full by 110 CBS affiliates and in part by another 50, CBS spokesmen say.

Ohio Perspective

Solon pushes water supply study

By ROBERT E. MILLER

Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio lawmaker, worried about what he calls Ohio's last great resource, has asked the 110th General Assembly to authorize a study of the state's underground water supplies.

"We are all well aware of the surface problems — pollution, shoreline erosion, flooding and all the others — but our underground reservoirs are recognized by some experts in the field as the last great resource in the state of Ohio," said Rep. Fred N. Young, R-38 Dayton.

Young offered a joint resolution in the House. It calls for the Legislative Service Commission, fact-finding arm of the legislature, to make the study.

The LSC would report to the 111th General Assembly when it convenes in January, 1975.

Young said he originally suggested the study be made by a joint committee of the Senate and House, but decided on the LSC "because it will take a lot of time and the commission operates on a year-round basis."

Young's proposed study would touch on the lives of 5 million Ohioans, who get their entire water needs from wells.

In all — for public use, rural domestic, livestock, irrigation and industry — Ohioans pump out of the ground each day about 500 million gallons of water.

The Dayton legislator remarked on the prospect of problems in the management of underground water supplies are uncertain.

"They may require that we take some action on management," he said. "We just don't know yet."

Young's interest would appear to have been stimulated by his home city, Dayton, which uses more ground water than any city in Ohio, probably ranking about fifth in the nation in this respect.

The time is approaching, some geological experts report, when there will be competition among Dayton area governments for the available water.

"The state and federal governments need to pull together on this," said Young.

Over-pumping of ground water could mean a permanent loss to the state's available water supplies, Young said, and pollution poses another serious threat.

The Ohio Advisory Council recommended in 1970 that a use control board be set up to administer and control the use of both ground and surface water and recommended that the legislature study the matter.

Similar studies have been called for by the National Water Commission and the board of trustees of the Water Management Association of Ohio.

machinery and wheat for fall sowing. He did not estimate the cost.

Whether corn and other crops will be planted next spring depends on action by the legislature, he said.

New spiral in farmland prices noted

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — When you spoke of rich farmland in days gone by it was understood that you were speaking of the soil's fecundity. Today it's possible somebody will think you're talking about price.

In the latest compilation by the Department of Agriculture, farm real estate values were up 13 per cent for the year, bringing the rise during the past six years to about 50 per cent.

In some areas the increase is considerably more, actually exceeding the much publicized rise of suburban land prices. Since March 1967 the price of farm real estate in Nevada, for example, has exceeded 150 per cent.

The increases are more bad news for housewives, since the higher purchase prices will be reflected at the retail level. Conversely, higher food prices is one major reason why land prices are bid up.

The farmer receives the news with mixed emotions. A retiring farmer may get prices beyond what he would have imagined a few years ago. But a young buyer will find himself at a competitive disadvantage.

The major factor behind the rise, in the view of some agriculture authorities, is the sharp rise in commodity prices. With soybean prices double what they were a year ago, one farm financier forecasts soybean land to rise 30 to 50 per cent this year.

Acres prices, near or at record highs, run from a minimum of about $150 for wheatlands to $250-$300 for Alabama soybean land to $500-$550 for Mississippi Delta cotton-soybean land to $1,200 for Illinois cornland.

Some larger increases are expected to result from nonfarm factors, such as housing demand and investors' efforts to seek hedges against inflation. That, at least, has been the pattern of the past.

New England farmland, which is generally inferior to that of the Cornbelt, the Delta, and the Northern and Southern Plains, has risen close to 100 per cent since 1967.

The bidding:

Opening lead - three of clubs.
I have a letter from a reader who complains about his exceptionally bad luck in this hand. Playing in a high-stake rubber bridge game, he got to six hearts doubled on the bidding shown.
Certainly North had a tough choice of responses after his partner opened with a game-forcing two bid and West had severely cramped North-South communications by leaping to five clubs. It seemed likely, from North's viewpoint, that there was a slam somewhere in the hand, and he elected to go for it in hearts. East interjected a jarring note by doubling and West made the killing lead of a club, selecting the three rather than the queen in order to coax a diamond return if partner ruffed the opening lead.

Ordinarily, declarer would have made six hearts very easily, but in the actual case he suffered a catastrophe. East ruffed the club and returned a diamond to partner's ace, whereupon West played another club, East ruffing again.

East ruffed again and he would have had a problem whether to return a spade or a diamond, except that West's second club lead had been the four, asking once more for a low suit return. Had West been void of spades, he would have asked for that return by leading the queen of clubs instead of the four.

So East led a diamond at trick four, ruffed by West, who continued mercilessly by giving his partner a third club ruff. East returned the compliment by giving his partner another diamond ruff, after which the defense finally ran out of steam.

All in all, South lost a diamond and five trump tricks to go down 1,400 points on a hand where he had a nearly 100 per cent shot to make six hearts! Into each life some rain must fall!

Giving Blood Is Safe, Painless

Is there any danger in giving blood to a blood bank?
Fifteen girls in my club want to donate this blood as a testimonial to our Guidance Counselor.

Not all of our parents are happy about this.

Miss L. H., W. Va.

Dear Miss H.:

It is gratifying to hear of so generous and touching a gift.

Donating blood is entirely safe, is painlessly done and can be a most rewarding experience. Your contributing a life-saving pint of blood will bring you and your group limitless personal satisfaction.

Do you know that when you give a pint of blood to a blood bank you do not deplete your own body's resources? It stimulates the healthy person to produce more blood to make up for the amount lost. Within a very short time the blood count returns to normal.

A healthy person can safely give a pint of blood five times a year without doing himself any injustice.

Your parents will gain greater assurance if they know that before any blood bank accepts blood from a contributor a careful history is taken to insure that there is no risk to the donor.

My congratulations to all the girls in your club.

My mother and my grandmother gave birth to all of their children with the help of their family doctor rather than a specialist.

My husband insists that all children must be delivered by an obstetrician only, for complete safety.

I have just learned that I am pregnant and I have not yet chosen my doctor.

Mrs. G. S. E., S.C.

Dear Mrs. E.:

Let me immediately assure you that most of the children born in the world are delivered by family physicians. They are remarkably adept and highly trained in the delivery of children.

I would like to point out, too, that there has been a resurgence in the use of the midwife in many countries of the world. Midwives, too, are exceedingly capable and relieve doctors in overcrowded communities.

The family physician, by his vast experience, recognizes any unusual problems he must cope with during the course of pregnancy. Whenever a problem arises that needs special consultation he does not hesitate to call on the obstetrical specialist for help and advice.

Naturally, many women and their husbands may feel more secure in the hands of the obstetrician who had spent many years in acquiring knowledge about every aspect of childbirth.

In large cities, obstetricians are available. In many rural areas, it is the family physician who is most likely to be consulted during early pregnancy.

Probably the most important aspect of your letter is that you have not yet chosen your doctor.

For greater safety to you and your unborn child, and whomever you choose, it should be done early. Then you will have the fullest advantage of his knowledge.

City rubbish issue likely Council topic

Trash collection in Washington C.H. will probably be one of the discussion items at the regular meeting of City Council Wednesday night.

Although that item is not on the agenda, several complaints have reportedly been received at the city offices and by councilmen protesting an order by refuse collectors that rubbish be placed at the curb for pick up. The starting date of the order is Sept. 1.

At previous Council sessions, city residents asked Council to establish controls for the collectors or take over the service.

The residents' comments were entered during discussions of the Environmental Protection Agency's ban on open burning. The EPA has ruled that Washington C.H. has adequate rubbish removal service.

The curbside order was spurred by problems created by the anti-burning regulations. The haulers say the burning ban has increased the volume of refuse, and issued the curbside order in lieu of increasing the charge.

Agenda items for the Wednesday session include three ordinances to pay C.F. Bird and R.J. Bull, Ltd., for professional engineering services.

Council will meet at 7 p.m. in the conference room of the city offices.

Trash collection contract opposed at New Holland

NEW HOLLAND — The New Holland Council met in a brief session Monday and decided not to enter into any contract for the village-wide collection of rubbish. The action means that individuals will have the opportunity to deal with the collection agency of their choice.

Don Conley, representing Ora Burdge, requested Council's approval of a plat for 50 homes to be built off Allen Avenue and McLain Street. He was directed to the three-member Zoning Committee which will evaluate the proposal.

Routine bills were paid including those submitted by Harry Wolfe for mowing and bulldozing. These bills were $302 for mowing the park and streets at $8 per hour and $858.25 for bulldozing the dump at $20 per hour. The bulldozing charge included $25 for taking the bulldozer to the dump and $23.25 for the purchase of stone to spread in the area.

Lynch heads Chest board

The Community Chest board of directors met Monday at the Chamber of Commerce office to review last year's finances and to elect officers for 1974.

Lee Lynch, of Armco, was elected president, replacing Bruce Galloway. Otis Hess and Larry Milstead will be first and second vice presidents respectively.

The board set Aug. 20 as the date to hear the proposed budgets and financial requests of its member agencies for 1974. The requests will be evaluated in light of the prospective income of the Community Chest, and then this year's goal will be set.

The Community Chest fund raising campaign will begin Oct. 1.

Nixon back at retreat

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — President Nixon spent Monday night at his mountain retreat here, with no immediate indication of when he would return to the White House.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said the President was driven to Camp David Monday afternoon along with his chief of staff, Alexander M. Haig Jr.

Warren gave no indication as to why Nixon suddenly returned to the retreat, where he had spent the weekend, saying only "he decided to go up there and work."

There was no word as to what Nixon was working on.

However, Nixon is expected to make a formal statement on the Watergate affair after the Senate Watergate committee completes the first phase of its hearings, expected later this week.

Governor reports to WCH audience

By MIKE FLYNN

An overflow crowd of nearly 250 persons heard Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan tell what he called "part of the record in terms of what the Democratic administration has to offer for the people of Ohio" at a special Governors Luncheon Monday in the Terrace Lounge.

Gov. Gilligan told the large and attentive audience, which spilled over into the regular dining area of the restaurant, that Democrats can now speak with pride of what has been achieved in Ohio during a relatively short period of time.

The Ohio governor was speaking primarily of the tax reform package approved in 1971 and ratified in all of Ohio's 88 counties by a 69 per cent margin.

Gov. Gilligan pointed out that the new tax reform measure allows money to be sent back to local governments and stressed "it would be absolutely crazy if local governments were undercut."

HE ALSO pinpointed how the funds apply locally. Gov. Gilligan said residents of Fayette County contribute $702,000 in personal income tax and $800,000 more funds are put back in the Washington C.H. and Miami Trace

$10 million spent on Nixon 'security'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has made an unprecedented accounting for some of the secret costs of the presidency while ordering a full disclosure on his purchase of homes in California and Florida.

Acting on the President's instructions, officials at the White House, Secret Service and General Services Administration revealed Monday that nearly $10 million had been spent by the government since 1969 for security, communications and other work at the First Family's out-of-town residences and offices.

At the same time, presidential spokesman Gerald L. Warren announced that Nixon had hired a private auditing firm to prepare "a complete, detailed accounting of the acquisition of the homes and property" he has purchased since taking office in San Clemente, Calif., and Key Biscayne, Fla.

That report will be released within a month, Warren said as he told newsmen it would "include everything ... on which you have had questions." The White House has been barraged with questions since May, when it disclosed that Nixon had borrowed $625,000 from industrialist friend Robert M. Abplanalp to purchase the San Clemente estate in July 1969—and that the loan was canceled in a complex school districts than under the old tax distribution formula.

The new tax reform has meant a 110 per cent increase ($532,000) in Miami Trace School District revenues and 43 per cent ($260,000) for the Washington C.H. city schools, he said. Combined it is an increase of $792,082 for the two districts. The governor explained to meet those figures 7.5 additional mills would have to be levied for the county schools and 7.2 additional mills in the city school district.

Gov. Gilligan said that the average income in Fayette County is $7,891 for a family of five with an average home market value of $15,000. Under the tax reform program, Gov. Gilligan said it means an average increase of $29 per year or 23 cents per week.

He cited corporate income tax as the key to the large share of funds received by the local governments.

GOV. GILLIGAN also explained in detail the humanization program started under his administration. As an example, he referred to Orient State Hospital, where he visited prior to his short stop in Washington C.H.

While at Orient, the governor attended a groundbreaking ceremony for a new $3.5 million surgical and medical facility. He pointed out that he is only the second Ohio governor in 35 years to visit Orient. Michael DeSalle was the other.

"It's through the money given to the state for the past 18 months that has enabled for the proper care of the mentally retarded," Gov. Gilligan said. There are 2,700 mentally retarded patients at Orient.

Through the tax reform, Gilligan said patients at Orient have electric fans in the wards, ice machines and water fountains for the first time. He also said that population of the wards has been reduced and new furniture has been purchased to replace the old.

GOV. GILLIGAN opened his luncheon speech with a bit of political humor by saying he wished that the large crowd had attended as a praise to him, but thought the size of the crowd was a reflection of the menu which offered roast beef and said that those attending were probably thinking that transaction 18 months later when Nixon sold to Abplanalp 23 of the 29 acres in the ocean-side tract.

GSA administrator Arthur Sampson, in an apparent reference to Watergate, said his agency divulged its $3.7 million in spending for security and administrative support of the President and his family because of "the atmosphere that exists today government wide."

He said virtually all the work was requested by the Secret Service in line with its duty to protect the President and his family "both from malicious harm and from safety hazards."

Many of the items listed in a 70-page fine-print breakdown supplied by Sampson dealt with presidential security. But a few didn't—including $89 for "four decorative pillows" for the President's San Clemente den, $475 for a "swimming pool cleaner" for the Key Biscayne compound and $6.83 for "picture frame supplies."

Sampson said some such items will be reclaimed by the government when Nixon leaves office and no longer needs them.

Warren said the same is true for more than $600,000 of the nearly $6 million in communications installations and other work financed by the military at San Clemente and Key Biscayne.

Increases to average 20 per cent

Ohio Bell rate boost OK'd

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio approved today a $98 million increase in rates for the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. The firm had sought rate hikes totaling $165 million.

PUCO said it had accepted a compromise offered by Ohio Bell and "a substantial number of the utility consumers served by the company..."

The rate increases granted amount to about 20 per cent, PUCO said.

Ohio Bell asked Aug. 9, 1971, for an overall percentage increase of 34 per cent, PUCO said.

The commission said about one-half of the new revenues will be used by Ohio Bell to pay state and federal taxes.

PUCO said the new rates probably will be reflected on the next bills delivered to customers.

"We are pleased that the commission has acted," said Bruce Galloway, manager of the Ohio Bell office in Washington C.H. "While the increase is less than what we feel is needed, we have agreed to the $98 million compromise because we desperately need more revenue immediately."

"Without this money, major service improvement projects would have had to be delayed and we simply would not have been able to meet the calling needs of customers in the immediate future," Galloway said.

The commission said residential subscribers will pay about 18 per cent more for phone service, and businesses an extra 23 per cent.

Ohio Bell had sought customer increases amounting to about 38 per cent, the commission said.

The commission said it had found, during a test period, that Ohio Bell received a rate of return on its investment of 4.2 per cent. The new rates will increase that to 7.6 per cent, PUCO said.

The commission said it had rejected a proposal by Ohio Bell that population changes automatically result in rate changes.

Extra health levy awaits voters' OK

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners has passed a resolution to place an additional two-tenths mill tax levy on the November ballot for health services, and voted 2-1 to enter an agreement with Gilmore Homes, Inc., for operation of water and sewer systems in the Culpepper Subdivision No. 3.

The resolution to place the tax levy on the ballot stated that the health district revenues will be in sufficient to meet the expenses of the Fayette County Health District Program. The proposed levy is for 5 years.

A formal request for additional funds was submitted to the commissioners in June by the Board of Health. At that time, Dr. William E. Covert, health commissioner, speculated that a two-tenths levy would produce an additional $20,000 per year. The board's action was recommended by the Fayette County Health Advisory Council earlier this year.

COMMISSIONER J. Herbert Perrill protested the board's action in entering the agreement for operation of the Culpepper water and sewer facilities.

Perrill said the developer, Jess Gilmore, president of Gilmore Homes, Inc., could form his own utility to operate the systems, or could negotiate with the city to have sewer lines extended to the subdivision. He said the county is not obligated to provide the services.

"This is another example where an individual can do something himself, yet he asks a governmental agency to do it for him," Perrill said.

Commissioners Ray Warner and Robert Mace previously signed an agreement of intent to assume operation of the water and sewer

Nixon lawyers defend subpoena refusal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawyers for President Nixon told a federal judge today that the court lacks jurisdiction to enforce the subpoena served on the President by Watergate special prosecutor Archibald Cox.

An attempt to enforce the subpoena demanding presidential tape recordings, they said, "would be an unwarranted and unsupported violation of the constitutional doctrine of separation of powers."

J. Fred Buzhardt, special White House counsel, in a court appearance lasting less than two minutes, filed a lengthy legal brief supporting the

PUCO cited its position in another case, that "any such judgment should be made on an industry-wide basis, and not merely with respect to a single company because of the magnitude of such a change in the regulatory system."

Commissioners Sally W. Bloomfield and Carl R. Johnson signed the order. Chairman Edmund Turk abstained

because, he said, he was a member of the Cleveland City Council when the application was filed.

It was the first rate hike approved for Ohio Bell in more than three years.

Bribery, extortion, tax fraud alleged

Agnew under investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew says he is under investigation for possible criminal violations but has done nothing wrong. Newspaper reports today said the investigation involves allegations of bribery, extortion and tax fraud.

Agnew made the disclosure Monday night through his press secretary, J. Marsh Thomson, and declined further comment "other than to say that I am innocent of any wrongdoing, that I have confidence in the criminal justice system of the United States and that I am equally confident my innocence will be affirmed."

The Wall Street Journal said the allegations against Agnew stem from the award of state contracts during Agnew's tenure as governor of Maryland in 1967-1968 and from federal contracts in Maryland let since Agnew became vice president in 1969. The federal contracts were let by the General Services Administration, the agency in charge of constructing federal buildings.

The Washington Post and the Baltimore Sun also reported that the investigation involved allegations of kickbacks from private contractors to Baltimore County and Maryland political figures.

The Journal said the investigation is being conducted by U.S. Atty. George Beall of Baltimore and that Agnew was notified formally by the Justice Department last week in a hand-delivered letter.

The newspaper said the vice president sought a White House audience after learning of the investigation, presumably to inform President Nixon.

A Nixon spokesman declined comment Monday night but said the White House was aware of Agnew's statement before it was released.

The Journal said the letter to Agnew was cleared by Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson, who then notified Special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox, although there is no direct connection of the case with Watergate.

No pact progress at Mead Corp.

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — Mead Paper officials reported "no significant progress" Monday in contract talks with United Paperworkers International Union locals as the deadline approaches for a threatened strike this weekend.

Locals 988 and 734, representing 3,000 paperworkers, voted last week to set an Aug. 11 strike deadline if agreement on a new contract is not reached.

The company's old contract expired Aug. 1.

Nixon shocked, Kleindienst says

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon was "dumbfounded" when told that his closest aides had been accused in the Watergate case in mid-April of this year, former Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst said today.

Kleindienst told the Senate Watergate committee that he first learned of accusations by White House counsel John W. Dean III and former Nixon campaign deputy Jeb Stuart Magruder early in the morning of April 15.

He said he immediately sought a meeting with Nixon, and relayed the information to him early that afternoon in Nixon's office.

"He was dumbfounded, he was very upset," Kleindienst said.

Kleindienst said Justice Department officials told him, and he told the President, that Dean and Magruder had implicated former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, campaign aide Frederick C. LaRue, themselves, White House aides H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, former campaign aide Robert C. Mardian, "you name it."

"This is the first time since June 17, 1972, that anybody had given me any credible evidence that any of them were involved in any way," Kleindienst said.

He said G. Gordon Liddy, later convicted in the case, approached him at the Burning Tree Country Club hours after the burglary, and told him that some of the five men arrested that morning might be employed by the White House or the Nixon campaign committee.

"My reaction to that statement was instantaneous and rather abrupt," said Kleindienst, who became head of the Justice Department shortly before that time.

Kleindienst said he immediately called Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen, head of the criminal division of the Justice Department, and told him in Liddy's presence that no special treatment should be given to the arrested men.

"I told him I was rather intent on giving him a rather specific direct instruction right then, that with respect to those arrested in the Watergate, they should be given no treatment different from others arrested in circumstances of that kind," Kleindienst said.

memorandum dealing with the transfer of Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt Jr. from the White House staff to the President's re-election committee along with political memos White House aide Gordon Strachan wrote to presidential chief of staff H. R. Haldeman.

The President voluntarily turned over the documents but refused to yield the tapes.

The Senate Watergate committee has served the President with two subpoenas. One demanded tapes of five conversations; the other, all documents relating to the 1972 camcalled to testify in the case and the prosecutors have not presented the evidence they have assembled to a grand jury sitting in Baltimore.

If the case did proceed to the grand jury stage, the prosecutors would have to confront the constitutional doctrine of separation of powers, the doctrine Nixon is invoking in the Watergate case, the Journal said.

2nd bombing error kills 4 civilians

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Another accidental U.S. bombing near here was reported today as the U.S. Embassy announced casualties in the B52 bombing Monday of a government base town on the Mekong River totaled more than 400 dead and wounded.

The second bombing in error, this time by a U.S. F111 fighter-bomber, was reported to have killed four civilians and injured 13 on a government-held island southeast of Phnom Penh in the Mekong.

The island was six miles upstream from Neak Luong, the naval base town on which a U.S. B52 heavy bomber dropped a string of bombs before dawn Monday.

U.S. Embassy spokesman Donald Doergel said he had heard reports of the second bombing accident but "I don't wish to talk about it."

There was no letup in the U.S. bombing. Heavy explosions could be heard from areas around Phnom Penh as U.S. fighter-bombers kept up their support of government ground forces. There was no word of B52 operations, but it was considered unlikely that there had been any curtailment because of the tragedy at Neak Luong, 32 miles southeast of Phnom Penh.

The casualty toll at Neak Luong rose today as U.S. Embassy officials said the count now was 137 killed and 268 injured.

It was the worst bombing accident of the Indochina war, and it came just nine days before American bombing of Cambodia is scheduled to end. The worst previous such incident was the American bombing of the South Vietnamese village of Lang Vei on March 2, 1967, when 83 villagers were killed and 176 wounded.

The U.S. air attaché in Phnom Penh, Col. David H. E. Opfer, 47, of Baltimore, visited Neak Luong four hours after the predawn bombing and said it resulted from "human or mechanical error."

The Pentagon said part of one B52's bombs fell short of the target.

"There are two factors—men and machines—and they can go wrong,"

Opfer told a midnight news conference punctuated by the thud of distant bomb explosions. "Somehow or other this plane went astray and Neak Luong was bombed by accident."

A string of more than 30 bombs hit in a line more than two-thirds of a mile long down the main street of the town, the colonel reported. He said the bombs blasted the office and living quarters of the garrison commander, Lt. Col. An Nil, who was unhurt; the market place; a hospital; a military command post; and army and marine living quarters.

Blanchester resident killed in auto crash

FAYETTEVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Mike Cunningham, 16, of Blanchester, was killed Monday night when the car in which he was riding went out of control while passing another, overturned into a ditch and hit a tree.

The accident happened on Fayetteville-Blanchester Road, three miles north of U.S. 50.

Patman panel eyes finances, credit crunch

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the prime interest rate at an all-time high, the House Banking Committee is preparing to investigate the nation's financial structure and its impact on the credit crunch.

Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the committee, says he wants the panel to write a plan for stabilizing soaring interest rates.

The prime lending rate, the figure charged banks' most credit worthy customers, reached 9 per cent throughout the industry Monday, the highest rate on record.

The prime rate was 6 per cent at the beginning of the year.

Since January, the Banking Committee staff has been preparing an analysis of financial institutions and regulations and considering possible reforms.

Before Congress began a month-long recess last Friday, Patman, a persistent critic of high lending rates, said his panel will hold hearings in September to "consider all aspects of the current credit crunch and the manner in which it is related to financial structure and regulation."

He promised the committee will draft specific legislation in September or early October to stabilize interest rates.

In a letter to committee members, Patman acknowledged "many divisions of opinion" within the panel about key financial issues.

Interest rates are exempt from controls under President Nixon's economic-stabilization program.

Commissioners

facilities. Perrill refused to sign the agreement.

Board members stressed that no tax money would be used to operate the facilities. The developer is to pay all expenses including power, chemicals, maintenance, repair, testing, labor and supervision. The agreement also calls for the users of the system to be assessed as the development is completed.

WARNER commented that the water and sewer system would be operated similar to the one at the I-71 and U.S. 35 interchange. That system has 20 users. Ninety-three lots are contained in the Culpepper Subdivision No. 3.

Perrill also cited an increased workload as a reason for opposing the plan. He said if the commissioners continue to take over such operations the county will have to set up a department to handle it, or hire additional clerical personnel. Mace countered with a statement that if the county must hire additional personnel to handle the workload, the users of the facilities will pay the cost through assessments.

Mace also said that it has been the experience in other counties that private operation of such facilities is unsuccessful, and the county ends up taking control.

Perrill said he was not at all sure if this would be the case. Mace cited Pleasant Valley as one case where the developer installed the systems and the people were now asking the commissioners to operate them.

Mace contended that the commissioners have been seeking centralized building developments for the past three or four years, rather than having small subdivisions all over the county. He said he feels the commissioners should have some say in the operation of the water and sewer facilities. Perrill said this was the opinion of the previous Board of Commissioners and he does not share that opinion.

Warner said he thinks the centralized systems will provide better health and welfare for the people of Fayette County.

IN OTHER ACTION Monday, the commissioners entered an agreement with Jay C. Bryant for the painting of the entrance to the GAR Hall, and a partition in the Probate Court offices.

O.M. Riegel, county welfare director, was authorized to attend the summer meeting of the Ohio Welfare Directors Association Aug. 6 and 7 in Columbus, and the County Welfare Seminar Aug. 10 in Columbus.

Commissioners Warner and Perrill plan to attend the Southwest County Commissioners and Engineers meeting in Wilmington on Aug. 15.

Economists see recession possible

NEW YORK (AP) — While 1973 has been a boom year so far, a number of leading economists believe business is in the early stage of a slowdown that could accelerate into recession proportions by mid-1974.

Most of the economists interviewed by The Associated Press expected the slowdown would continue and probably worsen next year, but few made an outright prediction of recession. When they did, they said it would be moderate and not necessarily bad for the country or consumers.

The economists were in general agreement on three other major economic questions.

They predicted: —The inflation rate would continue to rise, but not as sharply as this year.

—Unemployment would increase slightly to 5 or 5½ per cent.

—A credit crunch on the order of 1969-70 was unlikely, although interest rates would remain steep.

When a slowdown becomes a recession can be a semantic problem. The National Bureau of Economic Research defines a recession as two or more consecutive quarters of decline in the "real" Gross National Product — GNP — discounted for price increases.

Many economists are now talking in terms of a 1974 "growth recession," in which real GNP continues to expand but at less than its customary minimum level of 4-4½ per cent.

One economist who believes an actual recession is inevitable and the only question is when it will occur is Milton Friedman of the University of Chicago.

A monetarist who links growth of the money supply to rising prices, Friedman sees recession as good for the national interest. He says it would "correct" prices that have been driven sky high by the country's insatiable demand for goods and services.

It all depends on the policies of the Federal Reserve Board, which acts as the nation's money manager, according to Friedman. If the Fed tightens the country's money supply it would increase the likelihood of a recession in 1974, but if the Fed allows money to expand at the level of the first six months of this year that prospect would be delayed.

"You can only go on a drinking bout for so long," says Friedman. "Sooner or later you're going to have a hang-over."

Another economist who expects an actual recession is Albert Sommers of the Conference Board, a nonprofit economic research organization.

But he believes it can be "quite moderate" because there are plenty of cushioning influences. These include a turnaround in the U.S. trade balance as a result of the two dollar devaluations and the general optimism of business regarding long-term capital spending.

But the average American worker may take home a somewhat slimmer paycheck, Sommers says.

"It will mean less overtime and a certain amount of layoffs, but we're not talking about a deep recession."

John Kendrick, a fellow economist

with Sommers at the Conference Board, disagrees with his colleague's predictions. Kendrick says an actual recession in 1974 is possible but a growth recession is much more likely.

He sees the deepening slowdown as a direct consequence of a corporate profit squeeze induced by Phase 4 controls. While business could suffer next year, it might not be so bad for workers, he adds.

"The consumer will be getting ahead of the game a little bit," Kendrick predicts. "Wage rates will go up 6-6½ per cent and there will be some slowdown in inflation, with prices rising 4-5 per cent. So he'll see some improvement in terms of purchasing power."

Consumers' buying plans indicate they're becoming more cautious in their appraisal of future economic conditions. A May-June survey by the Conference Board indicates a "significant decrease" in the number of families who expect business conditions to improve and an increase in the number who think they'll get worse.

Shoppers in scattered parts of the nation are reported to be stocking up on meat in fear of higher prices or a serious shortage. They're "like kids going after cookies," one grocer observed.

A survey indicates higher prices of some meat products, occasional rationing of beef and industry predictions of more problems to come.

A number of bulk purchasers, including New York City and several Navy installations, reported they had run out of beef.

In San Francisco, a federal judge refused on Monday to order the Cost of Living Council to lift the freeze on beef prices. U.S. District Court Judge Robert F. Peckham turned down a preliminary injunction request from the Pacific Meat Jobbers Association, which represents 80 wholesalers and packers of beef products.

In Washington, Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz said again that the freeze will remain in effect until Sept. 12.

On the retail level, grocers reported some shortages and expressed fear the worst was still to come. There was only scattered rationing by stores, however.

The manager of a supermarket near Spokane, Wash., said he was limiting purchases of ground beef, pot roasts and chicken but not steak. "We wouldn't have this problem if the customers would ration themselves," Bill Sealise said. "We can't watch them all the time. When I go out and come back, there's no meat in the case."

U.S. citizens are also buying foreign beef. Customs inspectors in California report large numbers of Americans returning from Tijuana, Mexico, with meat purchases. Butcher shops in Tijuana report selling meat to Americans as fast as they get it from the slaughterhouse. Customs officials Albany, N.Y., also reported an increase in Americans returning with Canadian meat.

New York City has run out of beef for prisoners, hospital patients and daycare children. In Quonset Point, R.I., the naval officer who purchases food for commissaries in New England said he has been unable to buy meat for the 80,000 to 100,000 patrons in Rhode Island, Connecticut, Massachusetts and New York.

The shortage has been attributed in part to the unwillingness of farmers to send their cattle to market during the freeze. "There's a lot of beef that's not getting to the market. It's out in the pasture," Culbertson said.

On the Big Board, Arlen Realty topped the volume list at 5½, down 1½. It was followed by Interco, Inc., off 1¾ to 39¼, and Smith International, up ¾ to 21½.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up nearly 3 points early in the day, was off 2.11 at 910.67. Declining issues held a slight 585-to-547 lead over advances on the New York Stock Exchange, with 1,530 issues traded.

On the Amex the pricechange index at noon stood at 23.35, off .02. Champion Homes led the trading, unchanged at 6¼, while Kaiser Industries, down ¼ at 6¾, and Circle K Corp., off ¼ to 13, were active also.

A high pressure area along the Atlantic Coast is still dominating Ohio weather, with little change seen in the immediate future. Skies will be mostly sunny today and the mercury will climb into the 80s again Tuesday afternoon.

An area of lower pressure over the northern plains is still creeping eastward and is expected to reach the upper Mississippi Valley by Wednesday morning. The threat of showers will increase in Ohio as the low pressure and its related cold front approach the Great Lakes, with showers most likely by Wednesday night or Thursday.

There were a few clouds over Ohio Monday night and an isolated shower developed over Mansfield but most sections reported clear skies. It was hazy across the state and local areas of fog developed mainly along the Ohio River. Early morning temperatures were in the 60s, ranging from 58 at Toledo to 70 at Akron-Canton.

There will be a chance of showers Thursday and Friday, followed by clearing skies Saturday. It will be warm all three days, with highs in the upper 80s and low 90s. Lows all three days will be in the 60s and low 70s.

Governor's visit

it would be their last shot at roast beef.

He said he had heard rumors around Washington that people would be eating "Nixonburgers" in the future. He said the ingredients for the so-called sandwich would be patties of shredded public documents and bits of ground-up sound tapes.

The governor praised Rep. Myrl Shoemaker, who attended the banquet, as the "Wilbur Mills of Ohio." Gilligan stressed Rep. Shoemaker's work in getting the record budget approved.

THE LUNCHEON was sponsored by the Fayette County Democratic Executive Committee, under the direction of Chairman Milbourne Barney Laurence (Bucky) Dumford, a member of Gov. Gilligan's local government revision committee, served as toastmaster. The governor was officially welcomed to Washington C.H. by Fred L. Domenico, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and City Manager Dan Wolford.

Following his Washington C.H. visit, the governor was scheduled to make an appearance at the Clinton County Fair in Wilmington and attend a practice session of the Cincinnati Bengals at Wilmington College. The visit to the Bengal camp was postponed when head coach Paul Brown changed plans and gave the players the day off.

matched a report issued by Kent State campus police sometime after the incident. Kent State University police later issued a report that the gun had not been fired.

Norman is now a Washington, D.C., policeman. DeBrine said he knew Norman because of DeBrine's coverage of the Kent State problems. On the day in question, DeBrine said he saw Norman from about 200 yards away, running down a hill toward an area called The Commons.

"I knew him—that's why it caught my eye, and he was running quite fast," DeBrine said. "He was being pursued by someone who was pointing a finger at him and yelling, 'Stop that man! He's got a gun! I've just seen him shoot somebody!'"

DeBrine said he related the events to Balyeat and to an investigator for the Scranton Commission, which was appointed to make a federal investigation of the shootings.

DeBrine said no agency followed up on his report.

Stock prices move lower

NEW YORK (AP) — After a small gain in early-session trading, stock market prices declined today as brokers cited the continuing pall of higher interest rates and new uncertainties on the political scene.

Dollar opens higher, drops

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar opened generally higher in Europe today but weakened as trading progressed.

The U.S. currency advanced in London, Paris and Zurich at the outset but was down in West Germany. Dealers there blamed the drop on a technical reaction to the dollar's strong climb on Monday.

The dollar closed Monday in Frankfurt at 2.3850 marks. It opened today at 2.3840 marks and dropped steadily through the morning to 2.3640.

War protesters' strategy aired at Florida VVAW trial

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — An FBI informer says Scott Camil rejected his plan to use the Vietnam Veterans Against the War to police demonstrators at the 1972 national political conventions in favor of armed fire teams.

"I presented an idea about crowd control, using a 300-man VVAW force wearing helmets and baseball type chest protectors," William Lemmer testified Monday in the trial of Camil and seven other VVAW members charged with plotting violence during last year's Republican National Convention.

"They would have an eightfoot staff with a noose on the end to insert between whatever violent demonstrators there were and pacifist demonstrators," said Lemmer, a former VVAW member.

But he said Camil, VVAW Florida coordinator, countered with a proposal for the creation of armed fire teams of three to five persons to create diversions in the Miami metropolitan area if police and troops moved against demonstrators on Miami Beach.

"Camil's plan was accepted," Lemmer said.

Lemmer of Texarkana, Ark., was a leader in the VVAW and coordinator for Arkansas and Louisiana until the Memorial Day weekend last year. He said VVAW leaders discovered then that he was an FBI informer.

Lemmer, 25, also testified that Camil told him he was trading drugs for guns to arm political assassination teams he was training.

"At the time, there were no specific targets mentioned. He said the squads were being put together in case they were ever needed," Lemmer said.

The defense asked for a mistrial based on what it called Lemmer's inflammatory, prejudicial and irrelevant testimony, but U.S. District Court Judge Winston Arnoff rejected the motion.

Test shows vitamin C fights colds

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Children taking big doses of vitamin C daily experienced significantly fewer sick days with colds than schoolmates taking fake pills in a test study in Arizona, a federal researcher reports.

Dr. John E. Coulehan told a Stanford University symposium on vitamin C and the common cold on Monday that the 14-week study involved 641 Navajo children at the Toyei Indian boarding school.

See supply of newsprint tightening

WASHINGTON (AP) — The supply of newsprint for the nation's newspapers is tight and may get tighter, which probably will result in more 15-cent newspapers and higher advertising rates in the future, according to industry spokesmen.

The country's 1,761 daily newspapers have been under warning for some time from the American Newspaper Publisher's Association that demand for newsprint is catching up with supply.

"The present situation is not yet acute," said Stanford Smith, president of the ANPA. "The situation is that newspapers cannot get large shipments as fast as they might like to have them with the exact specifications they would like to get," he added.

Smith said he had not heard of any cases where newspapers have missed editions because of a lack of newsprint, but added a number of newspapers have taken steps to avoid wasting newsprint.

But Smith and others feel the big problem may lie ahead. Newsprint mills are already producing at capacity or near capacity in both the United States and Canada while demand from the newspaper industry continues to surge.

"If the economy moves up in 1974 and 1975, there could be a very tight supply situation," said Howard Post, a Department of Commerce specialist for forest products. Newsprint is currently selling for $175 a ton. Post estimates the price would have to increase to between $225 to $250 per ton to provide adequate incentive for new investment.

Sabina Council eyes fire truck purchase

SABINA — Purchase of a fire truck was discussed, but no action was taken in that direction Monday night at the Sabina Village Council meeting.

Council approved transfer of $100 from the general fund to the park fund and authorized payment of routine bills.

3 Lima men feared dead

LITTLE CURRENT, Ont. (AP) — Aircraft searched unsuccessfully Monday for three Lima, Ohio, men missing and presumed drowned near Manitoulin Island, in Lake Huron between Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

The three men—Rex Matthews, 52, Thomas Berger, 43, and Donald Durham, 40—left Meldrum Bay, at the northwest tip of Manitoulin, for Vidal Bay, about 12 miles away, on a fishing trip last Wednesday.

Some of their supplies were found in a cabin at Vidal Bay, but no trace of the men or their boat has been found.

The search has been restricted to aircraft so far because of rough water, but if weather permits, a police boat will join the search Tuesday.

Skylab crew in record space walk

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — With a record space walk on the books, Skylab 2's astronauts today resume experiments in their orbiting laboratory.

The flight plan called for mostly medical experiments for Alan L. Bean, Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma. But Garriott, a solar physicist, planned a long-awaited study of the sun with a battery of eight telescopes.

Garriott and Lousma loaded the telescope cameras with film Monday during a record space walk in which they were outside the station 6 hours, 31 minutes. That's nearly double the previous mark set by two Skylab 1 astronauts in June.

During the excursion, they also raised a new sunshade over their space home, worked with two scientific experiments and examined three trouble areas on the spacecraft.

Monday's space walk had been set for 3½ hours, but it was extended an extra three hours because of difficulties in erecting the shade.

They discovered no new clues to Skylab's problems.

The major problems afflicting the station on the 11th day of the Skylab 2 mission are:

—Leaks in two steering rocket systems on the Apollo taxi ship in which the astronauts are to return to earth on Sept. 25 after 59 days in space. Experts say the craft is still flyable. In case they don't understand the problem, or it gets worse, the space agency has ordered a rescue rocket prepared at Cape Kennedy for a possible launch Sept. 10 or later.

Civilian control eroded

The new these days in such as to induce an almost constant state of bilious indignation mingled with concern. There is no balm in disclosures which underscore the decline in effective civilian control over the military.

This was sharply brought to attention by the testimony of former Air Force Secretary Robert C. Seamans Jr. as to his ignorance of the falsified bombing in Cambodia in 1969 and 1970. It seems that he was not let in on the secret because as Air Force secretary he was not in the operational chain of command. That chain extends from the President and Secretary of Defense to the Joint Chiefs of Staff and thence to field commanders, bypassing the service secretaries. Thus in the case of the clandestine Cambodian bombing, the civilian head of the Air Force was relegated to the ranks of those not having what the Pentagon calls "a need to know."

This is not the first such episode. The New York Times reports, for instance, that "while running for the Senate last year in Rhode Island, former Secretary of the Navy John H. Chafee said he had not known planes were mining the harbors of North Vietnam in the spring of 1972 and would have objected if he had been informed."

It can be argued that leaving the service secretaries in the dark about what their forces are up to makes for greater centralization and hence effectiveness of command. However, this also tends to erode civilian control of the military, strengthening the hand of the Joint Chiefs.

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

Rare resolution voted to stem Nixon

WASHINGTON — The poison of corruption that is like a moral smog in the atmosphere of this capital hangs heavy over the tragedy of Cambodia.

However much the decision-makers may be sinned by the failure of a policy doomed to failure from the start, the real victims are the peasants who once lived a comfortable life in what was a green oasis.

For all the B-52 sorties, the economic aid, the masterminding of the bombing attacks by American specialists, the Lon Nol government could not be propped up with sufficient muscle to negotiate even if the Communist Khmer Rouge had been interested in negotiating. The end is near, and it will be a bitter defeat for American policy, with so much suffering inflicted on helpless people.

The Congress adjourned with a resolution showing deep distrust of President Nixon's intentions. While the Constitution gives the President authority to call Congress back into session, the resolution provides that congressional leaders may bring about a recall. Not unprecedented, such a resolution is nevertheless rare.

A STRONG suspicion that the President intended to continue the bombing after the Aug. 15 deadline was the reason for the resolution. The compromise pried out of the White House for a cutoff by mid-August was hardly a triumph of statesmanship. Congressional leaders were convinced the President would veto an immediate halt as he threatened to do.

A potent advocate of the resolution was Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, who has had a long, continuing relationship with Cambodia and the deposed ruler, Prince Norodom Sihanouk. Mansfield is going to China during the recess, hoping to see Sihanouk in Peking. The Prince believes he will be restored to power by the Khmer Rouge when Phnom Penh falls and the fighting ends.

In the embittered controversy over the secret bombing Sihanouk had an ambivalent role. Documents are in existence showing he knew of the bombing and made no protest so long as it was confined to the areas in Cambodia where the North Vietnamese had sanctuaries from which to attack South Vietnam. When Mansfield saw Sihanouk in 1969 the Prince gave him a hint of his attitude.

THE MAJORITY leader also expects to renew his relationship with China's Premier Chou En-lai. With the encouragement of Henry A. Kissinger, the President's adviser on national security, Mansfield will be the first member of Congress to go to China on his own and not as a member of a bipartisan group.

Aware of the strains that Watergate and the President's other troubles have put on relations with the People's Republic, he believes he can contribute to a sense of continuity so essential to Peking.

Among far-out types Mansfield is considered a laughable figure. Certainly he is not in the arm-twisting, head-knocking tradition of Lyndon Johnson, who ruled the Senate like Little Caesar. But he has been deeply angered by what has happened in Cambodia, and beware the anger of a compassionate man.

What is hard to understand is how the Administration walked into the Cambodian trap. The argument is that if it were not for the Aug. 15 deadline Sihanouk, with China's backing, would have been ready to negotiate a peace settlement with Lon Nol.

But would the Khmer Rouge and their North Vietnamese advisers be willing to go along with this? No one will ever know the answer to that question.

ALMOST without exception, news correspondents have given a picture of negligent, incompetent leadership in Phnom Penh; military commanders without ability or capacity to inspire their men to fight; the rich ignoring all responsibility and now in these last days sending their money out of the country.

Latest news stories tell of the frantic struggle for scarce places on planes still flying out of the capital. The mass of the people, perhaps up to half — refugees suffering from hunger, disease and the threat of annihilation from American bombs — will endure as best they can the final collapse.

Melvin R. Laird, looking blandly innocent on television, can say that, yes, he and the President ordered the secret bombing in 1969. But he had nothing to do with falsifying the records, which was merely Pentagon bookkeeping.

Where the blame lies must seem scarcely to matter, with so much obscured by the fog of suspicion and distrust.

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

In respect to the letter that Martha Reiff had published in The Herald, dated Aug. 3, regarding the beautification of the downtown section of Washington C.H., with trees to be planted in boxes provided, I wish to make a comment to the committee to make some consideration as to the beautification of the outskirts of our town.

Beginning Sept. 1, as published in The Herald some time ago, "all refuse and garbage" is to be placed by the users of such, at the curbs not more than three feet from the streets, and is to be picked up by refuse collectors weekly. Some sections of the city have no access to alleys, therefore it would be justified to place their refuse at this point, but as long as we do have some alleys accessible, why can't they be used for pickups.

The rusty old drums that some use to burn or store refuse have been unsightly and offensive, but not nearly as such when garbage and trash is placed at the curbs along streets.

Advertising papers are also a menace, for they are thrown onto the porches or yards and they make for more trash to be picked up and we have to pay for hauling them away, besides over-crowding the trash. I am in favor of the ban on burning trash and such, but the smelly garbage in our front yards won't help much, and the bags of refuse which might entice dogs, cats, or rats.

Also it might be a chore for some users to carry their refuse, etc. and I for one am not able to lift or haul such materials to the curbs.

Can't someone do something about this situation?

Mrs. Willis E. McCoy

Immunization declining

It is a tragic irony that, for one reason or another, large numbers of people in this most affluent of lands miss out on the full benefits of modern medical knowledge. To illustrate, a great many Americans are not fully immunized against diseases which can be stopped cold by vaccination: we know how to control such disease, but that knowledge is not as widely applied as it might be.

The United States Center for Disease Control is keenly aware of this. In particular it is concerned because levels of immunization against various diseases are on the decline.

Poliomyelitis offers a striking example, all the more so because such drama attended the discovery of anti-polio vaccines. We are now told that anti-polio immunization levels have been steadily declining over the past several years. Doctors have begun warning that this poses the danger of epidemics such as those that afflicted the nation in the 1950s.

Other diseases involved in the decline of immunization levels are rubella, measles, whooping cough, diphtheria, tetanus.

Happily, the Center for Disease Control is undertaking a nationwide program to do two things — identify those not adequately immunized, and see that they receive vaccinations. In this effort the CDC will have the cooperation of various health agencies. It is a sensible and badly needed effort. And should it prove advisable to have mass vaccination clinics, a la the 1960s, that ought to be done.

Agriculture is Canada's most important primary industry, although it employs less than eight per cent of the country's labor force.

What is a fatalist, father? I'm glad you asked me that, son. A fatalist is a husband who lets his mother-in-law pick out the neckties he wears.

Future generals spend their youth refigiting yesterday's wars. And, unless they are exceptionally able, when they mature and reach command, they tend to fight their own new wars the same old way.

The big advantage of color television is that it offers you a fresh and harmless way to show your distaste. If a commercial or program comes on the screen that you don't like, you can get revenge by twisting a dial and make everybody's face turn blue. How often do you get a chance like that in real life?

Single young secretaries have become the transients of the business world today. Half of them will quit a job and move on to another one within three months if the office they work in doesn't have an eligible young bachelor in it. They are looking for husbands, not pensions.

Isn't it nice to be worth more as you get older? In my youth I was told that the chemicals in a human body were worth only about 87 cents. But now, what with the rising price of gold, any middle-aged man who has much dental bridgework in his mouth, should be worth at least $15 to $20, and maybe more. Who says it doesn't pay to grow old?

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

He's on the verge of being chump for rich widow

DEAR ABBY: I am a 55-year-old man whose wife died three years ago. I am going with a 51-year-old widow. She is a high class, attractive woman whose husband left her as well off financially as I am. (Maybe better.) I am not the only man she goes with, and I see other women, but we both see more of each other because we seem to enjoy each other's company more. (Yes, it is a "love" affair, too.)

This woman is always suggesting that I buy her expensive presents. I never figured her for a gold digger, mainly because she can buy anything she wants, but she insists that I buy her things. I haven't bought her anything, yet, but I am on the verge.

She's never bought me anything, but then, why should she?

Part of me says, "Buy her something to please her," but part of me says, "Why should you? Don't be a chump." What do you say?

NOT TIGHT-JUST CAREFUL

DEAR NOT: "Why should you? Don't be a chump." (P. S. If she's no gold digger, she shouldn't act like one.)

DEAR ABBY: This is just like waking up in the middle of a nightmare! We have been married for two years and are now in the process of moving. Yesterday I found nine handwritten "thank you" notes I had written for wedding gifts received shortly after we were married. They had fallen behind a desk drawer.

I feel two inches high, knowing that these people have never been thanked for their wedding presents. They are probably wondering what kind of manners I have. Or do you think they have forgotten about it by now?

MORTIFIED

DEAR MORTIFIED: It's a hundred to one they have not forgotten. Better late than never. Send the original "thank you" note, explaining exactly what happened. They'll understand.

DEAR ABBY: My mother in law lives in another state. I write her long, newsy letters about once every three or four weeks.

If I'm a little late getting a letter off to her, she calls mutual relatives long distance, telling them she is worried sick about me because she hasn't heard from me in so long.

Abby, she is not senile. She's sharp as a tack. I am on to her little stunt. She just does this to give the relatives the impression that I neglect her. (I do not!) If she is really worried about me, why doesn't she call ME instead of calling everybody else?

Any suggestions?

BUGGED

DEAR BUGGED: Short circuit her little stunt and be sure she gets an "I am fine" post card every week without fail.

DEAR ABBY: I have read and reread that letter about "Grandma" who put $200 in the bank every month while she lived off her married daughter. Grandma kept promising this daughter she would get everything when she (grandma) passed away.

That brought back memories of my own experience. I took care of an ailing uncle for many, many years. His own children never bothered with him. This uncle must have said a thousand times: "When I die, you are going to get everything I have."

Well, Uncle never made a will, and when he died his estate which was considerable, was divided up according to law. Guess who never got a dime?

"ME" IN ILLINOIS

DEAR ME: You belong to a large club. But there is no subtle way to suggest that someone make a will.

Board holds 'post mortem' on '73 Fayette County Fair

The Fayette County Fair Board met Monday to assess the 1973 exposition.

The essence of their discussion was that the most important consideration next year should be the weather.

Profits were off this year as was attendance. The rain not only affected the Fair directly, but it also forced the Lions Club to close some parking areas and turn away a number of cars.

In light of this, the board launched plans to install additional tiles to aid drainage of the grounds. It was also decided that the old horse barn should be torn down so that 4-H activities may be held in that area.

Board members said that some persons who rent stalls have allowed manure to pile up in the horse barns. The board has almost twice as many requests for stalls as they are able to accommodate and has decided to evict those who refuse to cooperate in keeping the area clean.

The chain link fence that has been put up around the Fairground along the CCC Highway will be continued across the front of the grounds on Fairway Drive.

Theft, vandalism incidents checked

Two thefts and an incident of vandalism were reported to the Fayette County Sheriff's Department Monday and Tuesday.

Edna Weaver, Bloomington, told the sheriff's department that someone removed three gallons of enamel paint from her basement sometime during the last three weeks. The paint thief apparently entered the basement through an open window.

A set of floor mats, a T-shirt gear knob and a tachometer were taken from a car owned by Jack Wisecup, Jeffersonville, sometime after Friday. The accessories were valued at $39. The car was parked in Wisecup's driveway when the theft occurred.

Eugene Klontz, Sabina, told the Sheriff's Department he was awakened at 2:42 a.m. Tuesday by someone beating on his outdoor newspaper box. Whoever was doing the beating was frightened away when Klontz turned on the house lights.

Money Does Matter . . .

By David G. Looker

HAVE YOU THOUGHT ABOUT WORKING FOR YOURSELF?

An investment effort doesn't have to be centered on stocks or securities.

One who is operating his own business is involved in an investment program.

With an accumulation of substantial savings, many have taken advantage of business opportunities and been successful.

Legion are the dramatic accounts of small businesses that have grown and prospered into large industrial and merchandising enterprises.

Basic, however, in addition to adequate money resources, is "know-how", plus, in lesser degree, initiative, drive, perseverance, and the willingness to endure hardship and sacrifices.

The great growth of the franchising industry has often lessened the need for "know-how", because the formulas for successful operation are included in legitimate franchising "packages".

However, before starting a business of your own, talk with a commercial banker, and consult an attorney before entering into any agreement!

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Howard S. Harper, who celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on July 18th.

Good luck to Mike Domenico and his teammates in the upcoming North-South All Star Football Game at Canton on August 10th.

ASK THE LINDSAY MAN

Q. How do I pamper the vitamins when cooking fresh vegetables?

A. A little TLC, please. Wash them thoroughly but don't soak. Cook them in as little water as possible, quickly as possible and, when you can, cook them whole. If you use soft water, there are bonuses: You remove garden soil easily and bring out full natural colors. Vegetables look and taste better.

Q. How much soap is needed for washing clothes in soft water?

A. If with hard water you use one full cup of soap per washer, with soft water cut down to a scant coffee measure full. Amazing? Soft water leaves clothes soft, fluffy, comfortable, too—free of soap curd. And, think what you're doing for ecology!

Copleys home from 'Good News' Convention

Rev. and Mrs. Cloyce D. Copley, 221 Gardner Court, returned home Sunday afternoon from a week's trip to a "Good News" convocation held at Lake Junaluska, N. C. They were housed in the beautiful colonial hotel, which was a five-minute walk from the Stuart auditorium where the united public meetings took place. This has been the site for Methodist camp meetings of the area for a long time. Nearly all the states in the union were represented by delegates from laity and ministry, old as well as young.

Ohio had the largest delegation. This was the fourth yearly nationwide "Good News" convocation. The second was held in Cincinnati, of which the Rev. Mr. Copley was present. Rev. Roy Putnam of Greensboro, N.C. was the Bible teacher of the early morning session; Rev. David Seamands of Wilmore, Ky., of the Asbury College church, also used the Ephesians Epistle of Paul to bring advice on the 'Nitty Gritty of Family Living.' Twelve two-hour seminars were held each afternoon on the various problems of church activity in the busy world of today. Young people and children held their own programs in other meeting places about the camp. Harrell Hall, Lambuth Hall, and the World Methodist Building were some of the other meeting places for the activities.

The 14 Junaluska Singers which provided entertainment and leadership for the congregational singing of the week are also available for each week of the three months summer camp at the lake. They work in the schools and are on the staff of churches throughout the state of North Carolina. Glenn Draper is their leader.

Lake Junaluska is situated in the foothills of the Smokies. En route home, the Copleys stayed overnight and attended Wesley Chapel United Methodist Church at 83 East McMicken in Cincinnati, which church is on the site of Old Asbury 3-D, the latter served by the Rev. Mr. Copley from 1949-1953.

The Rev. Ralph Gibson served as chaplain at Memorial Hospital while Rev. Mr. Copley was gone.

Astros nip Cincy, 5-4

Slow curve answer for Dan Driessen

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Jerry Reuss had made up his mind. Danny Driessen was not about to get a fastball.

"He had been hitting my fastball all night," said Reuss, who went all the way to pitch the Houston Astros to a 5-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Monday night.

"I had to come up with something different."

What Reuss came up with was a slow curve and it proved to be the answer for the hothitting rookie, who flied to right ending the game with the tying run on second base.

Reuss, 12-8, took a 5-3 lead into the ninth and fanned the first two batters he faced. Pete Rose then doubled, stretching his hitting streak to nine games then scored on a single by Joe Morgan.

Morgan then stole second, his 43rd heist of the season, tops in the National League.

"I did everything I could to keep him from stealing," the Astro lefty said. "That's just how good he is."

Driessen has hit safely in the last 18 games he has started and owned a .340 batting average as he stepped to the plate in the ninth. Earlier he had Reuss fastballs for a double and single.

But this time Reuss's slow curve got Driessen to fly to right. The victory gave Reuss three wins over the Reds this year.

Fittingly, Astro outfielder Jimmy Wynn made the final out. He had powered the Houston offense all evening.

Mired in a slump with just two hits in his last 40 at bats entering the game, Wynn hit two singles, walked, stole two bases, scored three runs and drove in one to help Houston to its second victory in the five game series.

"We couldn't leave here with them winning four of the five games," Houston Manager Leo Durocher said. "We've got to keep them close to the Dodgers so there's a race in the Western Division."

The loss, only Cincinnati's tenth in the last 38 games, was charged to Jack Billingham. He went all the way to suffer his eighth loss against 15 wins.

Cincinnati now trails the Dodgers by four games, and five in the loss column. Houston will have a lot to say about which team wins the division title.

"We have nine games left with Los Angeles and we always play well against them," Durocher said.

The slumping Chicago Cubs invade Riverfront Stadium tonight with Rich Reuschel, 12-8, facing Cincinnati's Don Gullett, 12-8.

Scioto Downs route changed

COLUMBUS — Fans attending the races at Scioto Downs for the next several weeks are advised to use the Frank Road cut off of I-71 S. to S. High St. (U.S. 23) then south to the track.

Repair work on the bridge over the Scioto River on the outerbelt (I-270) has caused a monumental backup of traffic traveling east on the freeway.

Fans coming from the south can cut off of I-71 at the Ohio 665 exit, go east to Ohio 23 (S. High St.) then north to Scioto Downs.

Wallace to leave for new job soon

Chuck Wallace, a familiar face around Fayette County sports circles, will be leaving here within the next two weeks to become head wrestling coach and an assistant football coach at Chillicothe High School.

The 29-year-old Wallace, who has been city recreation director the past three summers and a member of Miami Trace's coaching staff the past seven years, will join head coach Kern McKee's football staff and will work with the guards, centers and defensive ends.

Wallace started the wrestling program at Miami Trace in 1966-67 and became immensely successful by compiling a 27-25-2 record against some of the toughest competition in Ohio. He coached the Panthers to a 16-7 mark the last two seasons and had four district champions, two of which placed in the state.

During his seven years with the Miami Trace football program, Wallace was a varsity assistant four seasons and head freshman coach three years. Wallace stacked up a 12-14 record as Miami Trace's head track coach in two years and was an assistant under Roy Lucas two years ago.

He was a standout on Miami Trace's first football team in 1961 and was an All-South Central Ohio tackle as a senior. The 1962

CHUCK WALLACE

Miami Trace graduate played football at Muskingum College two seasons before an injury and was graduated in 1966 with bachelor's degree in history and physical education. He joined the faculty at Miami Trace in 1966 and graduated from Xavier University in 1970 with a masters degree in education.

Wallace and his wife, Kay, and three daughters, reside at 1003 Briar Ave.

Yankees tumble to fourth in zany AL East scramble

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After eight innings Monday night, the New York Yankees looked like a first-place team.

Unfortunately, the Yankees' game against the Detroit Tigers lasted 10 innings—and by the time it was over, the Yankees were fourth in the wild American League East, and Detroit was on top of the heap.

First a two-run pinch-homer by husky Frank Howard with two out in the bottom of the ninth capped a three-run rally that erased New York's 4-1 lead and sent the game into extra innings.

Then Aurelio Rodriguez scored all the way from first with the winning run in the 10th inning—thanks to a pair of Yankee throwing errors and a missed play at the plate.

Meanwhile, the Baltimore Orioles, who had been first in the AL East before Monday's play, lost a 5-3 decision to the Boston Red Sox. That dropped Baltimore to second place, one-half game back of Detroit. Boston and New York are each one game out, although the Red Sox are one percentage point ahead of the Yankees.

The Orioles were knocked out of first place by unbeaten, 23-year-old left-hander Roger Moret, who posted his fifth victory of the season with relief help from Bob Bolin.

The Cleveland Indians beat the Chicago White Sox 7-3 in the only other American League game.

In National League action, the New York Mets beat the St. Louis Cardinals 10-3. The Houston Astros edged the Cincinnati Reds 5-4, the Montreal Expos topped the Chicago Cubs 7-3 and the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the San Diego Padres 2-0.

Indians 7, White Sox 3
Chris Chambliss' two-run double capped a five-run second-inning outburst that lifted the Indians to a 7-3 decision over the White Sox.

Gaylord Perry, 11-15, went all the way for the victory, giving up five hits.

Mets 10, Cards 3
Harry Parker pitched three scoreless innings of relief, working out of trouble twice, and picked up the win when the Mets rallied for three runs in the seventh and five in the eighth to beat the Cardinals 10-3.

"We played like we were in a daze," said Lou Brock after the Cardinals, the National League's East Division leaders, committed three errors and misplayed a number of other chances.

Astros 5, Reds 4
Jimmy Wynn, who just got over an 0-for-32 skid, rapped out two singles, scored three runs, stole two bases and drove home the tie-breaking run in Houston's 5-4 triumph over the Reds.

Expos 7, Cubs 3
Balor Moore pitched six innings of no-hit ball in Montreal's 7-3 triumph, but Mike Marshall had to come on in the eighth and picked up his 22nd save of the year.

Dodgers 2, Padres 0
Al Downing, 9-6, scattered five singles, struck out six and walked just one as the Dodgers stopped the Padres 2-0 and raised their lead in the National League's West Division to four games over second-place Cincinnati.

Wilmington judge top Bengals buff

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — When it comes to football, Judge Howard Barns lays down the line.

"I make sure my work gets done early so I never miss a practice," says the balding, 67-year-old Barns, who describes himself as "the No. 1 football nut" in this community of 10,000, site of the Cincinnati Bengals' training camp.

"And my wife is just as big a nut over it as I am," said Barns, who says the game "got in my blood the first time I touched a football. I was 12 years old."

He's a familiar figure at the Wilmington College practice field, where the Bengals have geared for coming gridiron wars since their inception five years ago.

A Wilmington resident since 1917, Barns and his wife, Irene, have been football buffs since the early years of the game.

"I saw Jim Thorpe and his Indians at Canton when I was a kid. He was the greatest," the judge said.

49ers top Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — San Francisco 49ers Coach Dick Nolan has been drilling his squad in defensive goal line stands and Monday night in Cleveland Stadium it paid off.

The 49ers stopped the Cleveland Browns twice with second down and goal situations and defeated the Browns 27-16 in a National Football League exhibition game.

"We're looking for improvement on the goal line," Nolan said. "We've been working hard and well and put forth a lot of effort."

Forty-niner middle linebacker Frank Nunley threw veteran Browns running back Leroy Kelly for a two-yard loss in one of those stands.

"We weren't doing anything really fancy," Nunley said. "The first time they ran the weak side and (cornerback Bruce) Taylor closed it up."

"We were just doing basic things. We have several variations off the goal line we haven't put in yet."

On both goal line stands the Browns were forced to settle for field goals.

The 49ers also capitalized on three Browns' fumbles.

2nd round games set in Legion tournament

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP) — Second round games were scheduled today in the 44th annual American Legion state baseball tournament at Ashland.

Favored Cincinnati Bentley scored eight runs in the first inning and then coasted to a 17-6 victory over Ashtabula Monday in the double elimination tournament.

Stacy Morrow pitched and batted Steubenville to a 7-4 triumph over Athens in another first round game.

Crocker fires ace at Buckeye Hills

Washington C.H.'s Jim Crocker matched Chester Brown's hole-in-one performance at the Washington Country Club by firing an ace Sunday afternoon on the 138-yard No. 6 hole at Buckeye Hills Country Club.

The rare feat was witnessed by Crocker's wife, Pat, Bill and Karen Buck, of Greenfield, and Willie and Dot Bastian, of Leesburg.

The birth of the Bengals created one problem, but solved another.

"We were Cleveland Brown and Paul Brown fans for years. He used to drive up to their training camp in Hiram and spend a week or two watching the team. When Coach Brown took over the Bengals we transferred our affections down to Cincinnati," he said.

The Bengals' decision to train in Wilmington virtually brought pro football to Judge Barns' back door.

"That was worth a million dollars of good, clean advertising to this city. Many people had never heard of Wilmington until the Bengals came here," he said.

"There's nothing like football. You get a crowd feeling that no other sport has. Baseball's too slow for me. They just stand around and look at each other," said Barns, a common pleas court judge who has been practicing law since 1931.

"My wife and I saw four football games in one weekend. We love it. Both our sons played," he said.

Barns played football at two small colleges.

"It's funny, though," he said. The only souvenirs I have are a few knots on my head and a couple of broken bones. I stay out of the way now," he laughed.

Barns expects the Bengals, pro football's youngest club, to soon be Super Bowl contenders.

"This club is just a couple breaks away from the big one. I plan to be around to see it," he said.

Neither be extravagant in an effort to impress others nor fall for any ostentatiousness displayed for your benefit. Concentrate on what's REAL and dependable.

TAURUS

Do not overtax yourself, and do avoid anxiety. If you are doing your very best, both in job and personal matters, it will prove rewarding enough.

GEMINI

Planetary influences point to new interests. Make sure you are ready for them — but without slighting current obligations. Don't let "moods" cause misunderstandings.

CANCER

Lunar influences now stimulate your business acumen and good timing. There will be many fringe benefits for those ready to expend a little added effort.

LEO

A hectic working day indicated. Determine to remain calm under all circumstances. "Don't fly off the handle" with associates.

SAGITTARIUS

Indications of a good financial break. It may come in the form of dividends from a shrewd investment or repayment of a loan long since forgotten.

CAPRICORN

Some pleasing surprises in store. You may find, quite unexpectedly, that a hobby or avocation has money-making potential.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

You have considerable freedom of movement now. Best used, it can help to further either personal or creative objectives.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Mixed influences. If you have an important decision to make, postpone action until afternoon when hours are propitious. Some confusion likely in the a.m.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a dynamic personality, a gift for leadership and terrific organizing ability. Your versatility is remarkable and you could succeed in almost any field of your choosing—once you have learned self-discipline and have conquered traits of arrogance and impulsiveness. You would make a brilliant actor or writer (especially in the dramatic field), or educator. If business attracts you, manufacturing, banking or brokerage would be the best outlets for your talents.

Ohio Perspective

Solon pushes water supply study

By ROBERT E. MILLER

Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio lawmaker, worried about what he calls Ohio's last great resource, has asked the 110th General Assembly to authorize a study of the state's underground water supplies.

"We are all well aware of the surface problems — pollution, shoreline erosion, flooding and all the others — but our underground reservoirs are recognized by some experts in the field as the last great resource in the state of Ohio," said Rep. Fred N. Young, R-38 Dayton.

Young offered a joint resolution in the House. It calls for the Legislative Service Commission, fact-finding arm of the legislature, to make the study. The LSC would report to the 111th General Assembly when it convenes in January, 1975.

Decide state farming to continue

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan has reversed an earlier decision to halt farming at all state institutions, says Ohio Mental Health and Mental Retardation Director Kenneth Gaver.

Gaver said the governor took the advice of Agriculture Director Gene Abercrombie that since the land was available, it should be farmed until the General Assembly decides what should be done with it.

Gilligan had announced last fall farming operations at state prisons and mental institutions would be halted because some mental health officials claimed it has lost its usefulness as a rehabilitation measure.

Farming was curtailed on more than 4,000 acres at 13 facilities this year. Farming this summer at eight other institutions, involving about 2,000 acres, was to end by March of 1974.

A bill granting the Gilligan administration authority to dispose of state farm lands was submitted to the legislature April 18. But the bill never was assigned to a committee for hearings.

Another bill, seeking authority to sell a few specific parcels of land, was referred to a committee but failed to get a hearing.

Gaver said he will authorize purchase of fertilizer, livestock feed,

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Well, it's finally under way. After a heavy meet-the-press and publicity campaign, Hughes Rudd and Sally Quinn have begun life as coanchors of the "CBS Morning News."

However, their dawn debut Monday was slightly under Whoopie on television's scale of excitement, despite pledges by CBS-TV the new offering would be livelier and less formal than before.

The hour-long show seemed about the same as when headed by John Hart and Nelson Benton. Only the cast, set and ad libs were new.

NBC's durable "Today" show, which has been beating all comers since 1952, took no notice whatsoever Monday of the potential ratings threat posed by the new CBS team. It did nothing out of the ordinary.

CBS says the cold was so bad that, just before the show, Miss Quinn was rushed to a hospital for a quick checkup and medication. She immediately repaired to her bed when the show was over.

"Wouldn't you know the first day I come on television I start out with a sore throat and a fever?" she joked as the program began.

"Well, a fever is all right as long as it doesn't make you delirious," mused Mudd. "Actually, there've been a lot of people on television who were delirious. They're usually running for public office."

But after that start, the quality of commentary—on Miss Quinn's part—tended to wander, fall flat or come out just plain silly, particularly after a film story on child labor on California farms.

"I can remember when my father and mother wanted me to clean my room—I thought that was child labor," said Miss Quinn, the daughter of an Army general. "Have you ever tried to pick strawberries for half an hour?"

"You can't do it. It's just absolutely killing work."

Miss Quinn, a good, waspish writer, would have murdered anyone using that line, were she still in the newspaper game. So blame the fever and wait to see how things look when she feels better.

She only seemed up to par when participating in a fourway grilling of Patrick Buchanan, President Nixon's speechwriter.

CBS, looking for improved ratings after years of trying to lure away the "Today" audience, says the new morning news show is carried in its entirety by 161 stations, including all five CBS-owned stations.

Prior to Monday, the show was carried in full by 110 CBS affiliates and in part by another 50, CBS spokesmen say.

New spiral in farmland prices noted

By JOHN CUNNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — When you spoke of rich farmland in days gone by it was understood that you were speaking of the soil's fecundity. Today it's possible somebody will think you're talking about price.

In the latest compilation by the Department of Agriculture, farm real estate values were up 13 per cent for the year, bringing the rise during the past six years to about 50 per cent.

In some areas the increase is considerably more, actually exceeding the much publicized rise of suburban land prices. Since March 1967 the price of farm real estate in Nevada, for example, has exceeded 150 per cent.

The increases are more bad news for housewives, since the higher purchase prices will be reflected at the retail level. Conversely, higher food prices is one major reason why land prices are bid up.

The farmer receives the news with mixed emotions. A retiring farmer may get prices beyond what he would have imagined a few years ago. But a young buyer will find himself at a competitive disadvantage.

The major factor behind the rise, in the view of some agriculture authorities, is the sharp rise in commodity prices. With soybean prices double what they were a year ago, one farm financier forecasts soybean land to rise 30 to 50 per cent this year.

Acres prices, near or at record highs, run from a minimum of about $150 for wheatlands to $250-$300 for Alabama soybean land to $500-$550 for Mississippi Delta cotton-soybean land to $1,200 for Illinois cornland.

Some larger increases are expected to result from nonfarm factors, such as housing demand and investors' efforts to seek hedges against inflation. That, at least, has been the pattern of the past.

New England farmland, which is generally inferior to that of the Cornbelt, the Delta, and the Northern and Southern Plains, has risen close to 100 per cent since 1967.

Police classes open

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Atty. Gen. William J. Brown welcomed the first class of law enforcement officers studying the state's new criminal code Monday. The code goes into effect in less than five months.

HAVE YOU WRITTEN A BOOK?

The field editor of a well-known New York subsidy publishing firm will be in Chillicothe in September. He will be interviewing local authors in a quest for finished manuscripts suitable for book publication. All subjects will be considered, including fiction and non-fiction, poetry, juveniles, religious books, etc.

If you have completed a book-length manuscript (or nearly so) on any subject, and would like a professional appraisal (without cost or obligation), please write immediately describing your work and stating which part of the day (a.m. or p.m.) you would prefer for an appointment. Please mention your phone number. You will promptly receive a confirmation for a definite time and place.

Authors with completed manuscripts unable to appear may send them directly to us for a free reading and evaluation. We will also be glad to hear from those whose literary works are still in progress. Please address:

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 ♠	5 ♣	6 ♥	Dble
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead - three of clubs.

I have a letter from a reader who complains about his exceptionally bad luck in this hand. Playing in a high-stake rubber bridge game, he got to six hearts doubled on the bidding shown.

Certainly North had a tough choice of responses after his partner opened with a game-forcing two bid and West had severely cramped North-South communications by leaping to five clubs. It seemed likely, from North's viewpoint, that there was a slam somewhere in the hand, and he elected to go for it in hearts. East interjected a jarring note by doubling and West made the killing lead of a club, selecting the three rather than the queen in order to coax a diamond return if partner ruffed the opening lead.

Ordinarily, declarer would have made six hearts very easily, but in the actual case he suffered a catastrophe. East ruffed the club and returned a diamond to partner's ace, whereupon West played another club, East ruffing again.

East ruffed again and he would have had a problem whether to return a spade or a diamond, except that West's second club lead had been the four, asking once more for a low suit return. Had West been void of spades, he would have asked for that return by leading the queen of clubs instead of the four.

So East led a diamond at trick four, ruffed by West, who continued mercilessly by giving his partner a third club ruff. East returned the compliment by giving his partner another diamond ruff, after which the defense finally ran out of steam.

All in all, South lost a diamond and five trump tricks to go down 1,400 points on a hand where he had a nearly 100 per cent shot to make six hearts! Into each life some rain must fall!

Giving Blood Is Safe, Painless

Is there any danger in giving blood to a blood bank?

Fifteen girls in my club want to donate this blood as a testimonial to our Guidance Counselor.

Not all of our parents are happy about this.

Miss L. H., W. Va.

Dear Miss H.:

It is gratifying to hear of so generous and touching a gift.

Donating blood is entirely safe, is painlessly done and can be a most rewarding experience. Your contributing a life-saving pint of blood will bring you and your group limitless personal satisfaction.

Do you know that when you give a pint of blood to a blood bank you do not deplete your own body's resources? It stimulates the healthy person to produce more blood to make up for the amount lost. Within a very short time the blood count returns to normal.

A healthy person can safely give a pint of blood five times a year without doing himself any injustice.

Your parents will gain greater assurance if they know that before any blood bank accepts blood from a contributor a careful history is taken to insure that there is no risk to the donor.

My congratulations to all the girls in your club.

My mother and my grandmother gave birth to all of their children with the help of their family doctor rather than a specialist.

My husband insists that all children must be delivered by an obstetrician only, for complete safety.

I have just learned that I am pregnant and I have not yet chosen my doctor.

Mrs. G. S. E., S.C.

Dear Mrs. E.:

Let me immediately assure you that most of the children born in the world are delivered by family physicians. They are remarkably adept and highly trained in the delivery of children.

I would like to point out, too, that there has been a resurgence in the use of the midwife in many countries of the world. Midwives, too, are exceedingly capable and relieve doctors in overcrowded communities.

The family physician, by his vast experience, recognizes any unusual problems he must cope with during the course of pregnancy. Whenever a problem arises that needs special consultation he does not hesitate to call on the obstetrical specialist for help and advice.

Naturally, many women and their husbands may feel more secure in the hands of the obstetrician who had spent many years in acquiring knowledge about every aspect of childbirth.

In large cities, obstetricians are available. In many rural areas, it is the family physician who is most likely to be consulted during early pregnancy.

Probably the most important aspect of your letter is that you have not yet chosen your doctor.

For greater safety to you and your unborn child, and whomever you choose, it should be done early. Then you will have the fullest advantage of his knowledge.

City rubbish issue likely Council topic

Trash collection in Washington C.H. will probably be one of the discussion items at the regular meeting of City Council Wednesday night.

Although that item is not on the agenda, several complaints have reportedly been received at the city offices and by councilmen protesting an order by refuse collectors that rubbish be placed at the curb for pick up. The starting date of the order is Sept. 1.

At previous Council sessions, city residents asked Council to establish controls for the collectors or take over the service.

The residents' comments were entered during discussions of the Environmental Protection Agency's ban on open burning. The EPA has ruled that Washington C.H. has adequate rubbish removal service.

The curbside order was spurred by problems created by the anti-burning regulations. The haulers say the burning ban has increased the volume of refuse, and issued the curbside order in lieu of increasing the charge.

Agenda items for the Wednesday session include three ordinances to pay C.F. Bird and R.J. Bull, Ltd., for professional engineering services.

Council will meet at 7 p.m. in the conference room of the city offices.

Trash collection contract opposed at New Holland

NEW HOLLAND — The New Holland Council met in a brief session Monday and decided not to enter into any contract for the village-wide collection of rubbish. The action means that individuals will have the opportunity to deal with the collection agency of their choice.

Don Conley, representing Ora Burdge, requested Council's approval of a plat for 50 homes to be built off Allen Avenue and McLain Street. He was directed to the three-member Zoning Committee which will evaluate the proposal.

Routine bills were paid including those submitted by Harry Wolfe for mowing and bulldozing. These bills were $302 for mowing the park and streets at $8 per hour and $858.25 for bulldozing the dump at $20 per hour. The bulldozing charge included $25 for taking the bulldozer to the dump and $23.25 for the purchase of stone to spread in the area.

Little boy found dead in backyard swim pool

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A 2-year-old Cincinnati boy died Monday afternoon in the family's backyard swimming pool, police said.

Robert Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Cook, was found floating face down in four-foot deep water by his uncle.

Election petition deadline Wednesday

The deadline for filing nominating petitions is only a day away and many positions to be filled in the Nov. 6 election remain without candidates.

The vacancies exist in many village offices, township trustees and county school board.

Filing petitions Monday for Washington City Council were incumbents Hugh Patton and Ralph Cook. William F. Stolzenburg, who previously filed as a candidate for City Council, refilled petitions Monday. An error was found on Stolzenburg's original petitions.

As of this morning, 10 persons had filed for the four Washington C. H. Council openings.

Elmer Kingery Sr. and Elmer Kingery Jr. filed petitions Monday for re-election to Octa Village Council.

Others filing Monday were Jess A. Schlichter, an incumbent, for Paint

Downpours hit wide areas of U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy thunderstorms erupted at widely scattered locations across the continent today after causing crop damage and flooding late Monday.

Generally pleasant weather was the rule outside the storm areas.

Thunderstorms roamed the northern Plains and northern Mississippi Valley. A few storms dampened the central and southern Plains, the Gulf and South Atlantic Coast states and areas in northern New England.

Heavy thunderstorms flooded at least one highway near Boone, N.C., with 3 to 4 feet of water as northwestern North Carolina was hit by downpours, Burlington, Vt., was soaked by almost an inch of rain.

Hail up to 3/4-of-an inch thick stopped traffic between Lake Preston and De Smet, S.D., Monday night. Winds flattened a corn field near Wolsey, and a funnel cloud was sighted 20 miles north of Humboldt, in eastern South Dakota. No injuries were reported.

At Gemmell, Minn., about 50 miles southwest of International Falls, hail 1.75 inches in diameter pounded the town.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 43 at Cut Bank, Mont., to 90 at Needles, Calif.

Octa councilwoman's resignation accepted

OCTA--Village Council Monday night accepted the resignation of Mrs. Barbara Wilt as a member of the legislative body and approved a two-year contract with the Fayette County Bank as a depository for village funds.

Mrs. Wilt's successor will be named at a later meeting. Only other business at the August session was authorization for payment of current bills.

Township trustee; Arnett Kelly, Jasper Township trustee, and Eldridge Cockerill, Perry Township trustee.

The deadline for filing nominating petitions is 4 p.m. Wednesday.

Lynch heads Chest board

The Community Chest board of directors met Monday at the Chamber of Commerce office to review last year's finances and to elect officers for 1974.

Lee Lynch, of Armco, was elected president, replacing Bruce Galloway. Otis Hess and Larry Miltstead will be first and second vice presidents respectively.

The board set Aug. 20 as the date to hear the proposed budgets and financial requests of its member agencies for 1974. The requests will be evaluated in light of the prospective income of the Community Chest, and then this year's goal will be set.

The Community Chest fund raising campaign will begin Oct. 1.

Nixon back at retreat

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — President Nixon spent Monday night at his mountain retreat here, with no immediate indication of when he would return to the White House.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said the President was driven to Camp David Monday afternoon along with his chief of staff, Alexander M. Haig Jr.

Warren gave no indication as to why Nixon suddenly returned to the retreat, where he had spent the weekend, saying only "he decided to go up there and work."

There was no word as to what Nixon was working on.

However, Nixon is expected to make a formal statement on the Watergate affair after the Senate Watergate committee completes the first phase of its hearings, expected later this week.
